Sailor Killed in Crash

Victim's Legs Severed As Impact Crushes Auto

By AB KENT

A 38-year-old naval petty officer died almost instantly when his car was wrecked in crashes with another car, a tree, fences and a house on Hillside Avenue, at 11.35 p.m. Monday.

He lost both legs in the spectacular accident.

Lawrence Albert Orton, of HMCS Margaree, was dead on arrival at Royal Jubilee Hospital, the city's first traffic fatality of 1960.

Two others, AB Clarke E. Maguire, 21, of HMCS Margaree, a passenger with Orton, and Atwell C. D. King, 51, of 2091 Townley, driver of the other car, were treated for minor injuries.

The crash covered most of a city block between Doncaster Drive and Belmont Avenue and both sides of Hillside, an estimated 400 feet.

The victim's car was folded in the middle where it struck a large oak broadside at the driver's door on the north boulevard of Hillside.

Crash 'Sounded Like Gunfire'

"It sounded like gunfire," off-duty city policeman Harry Hoshal said after he was disturbed at his home at 1653 Edgeware, two blocks away.

"I went over to see what had happened. I couldn't rest until I found out."

He spent the next half-hour or so directing traffic around the crash scene.

Carlos Blatchford, who had just retired to a second floor bedroom at 1503 Hillside, said he heard a loud crash of fences being knocked down, but hardly any sound of the car hitting the ground floor wall of his house.

Police said it appeared that PO Orton, married and the father of three children, drove west on Hillside when his car veered to the wrong side of the street just west of Doncaster and was in collision with the left front fender of King's car, heading east.

The impact apparently caused the first car to go back, out of control, some 235 feet along the right side of Hillside to where it struck the tree.

It was whipped through an arc on the north side of the tree and again on to the street, crossing completely to the south side where it went through fences at Blatchford's and his neighbor's, the home of Frederick Bosence, 1509 Hillside.

Petty Officer Thrown From Car

Its impetus finally broken, the car came to rest against a corner of Blatchford's house, barely damaging the structure.

Police wrote off the four-door, two-tone late model car. King's car was damaged on the fender and left hood and wheel assembly.

Both cars were impounded pending investigation.

PO Orton was thrown out of his car at the oak tree and Maguire was carried on in the auto, suffering face and ankle injuries with which he was admitted to HMCS Naden Hospital.

King was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and treated for shoulder and hand injuries, and then discharged.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart will conduct an inquest at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday at Hayward's funeral home.

PO Orton until recently lived with his family at 914 Parklands, but Mrs. Madeline Mary Orton and children Nicky, 14, Karen, nine, and Andrea, seven, had just moved to Alberni where the family bought a motel business.

The seaman was due for retirement from the RCN in November of this year.

Besides the immediate family, PO Orton is survived by two brothers in Victoria, Bernard Orton and Raymond Thomas Orton; his mother Mrs. Laura Orton, brothers George and Edward and sisters Marjorie Faber and Marion Reitmeyer, all of Regina, and brother Leonard, Saskatoon.

Oil Pipeline Set For Peace River

The B.C. government today approved a start on construction of a 130-mile crude oil pipeline network in the Peace River country which had been forfeited by another company.

Initial cost of the project will be $5 million.

Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd., a Canadian company, has been awarded a transport department certificate for an immediate start on construction.

The project was "defaulted" by Peace River Oil Pipeline Ltd. which could not come to terms with the provincial government on its plans for a hookup in Alberta.

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks said the new line will be in operation within 13 months. It will have an initial capacity of 20,000 barrels a day. The main line will be eight inches in diameter and feeder lines and auxiliaries will be "suitable" capacity.

WILL PROVIDE JOBS

Donald Brandt, president of the company, said about 100 men will get jobs on manufacturing the pipe, and "several hundred more" will get work on the line in the north.

The company has an office in Vancouver, and operates pipelines in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The main line will run from

4 MEN LOST

PWA Plane Crashes In Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines announced today that four men are believed to have been killed when a company Beaver float plane crashed at Lorna Lake, 84 miles west of Williams Lake, 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The company said in a statement the plane apparently crashed on take off Monday.

A PWA search plane spotted the wreckage Monday night but could not determine whether the men were still inside. It was in about 10 feet of water.

B.C. PILOT

The company said pilot of the plane was J. B. (Jim) Marshall, 46, of Kamloops, B.C. Names of the three passengers, all thought to be Calgary men, were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

However, it is understood they were employees of Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary.

The company said first news of the accident came early Monday night after PWA sent in an aircraft to check when Marshall's plane was unreported. Marshall, a veteran pilot with eight years with PWA, reported to the company's Kamloops base at 1.10 p.m.

The search plane was hampered by darkness and another plane was sent in this morning.

"It would appear," reported pilot Don Iverson, "that the aircraft was about to take off when it was struck by a violent gust of wind at the south-east end of the lake and flipped over."

"Because of heavy silt in the lake we were unable to determine whether the men were still inside the aircraft."

SPY PILOT:

'Better Off In Russia Than U.S.'

LONDON (CP)—A left-wing American lawyer bound for the Powers trial in Moscow said today the captured U-2 pilot "is probably a lot better off than he would be if he were a Soviet spy on trial in the U.S.A."

Vincent Hallinan of San Francisco, who was invited to attend the trial as an observer, told reporters at London airport:

"Our government has stupidly admitted he was spying, so what can he do at his trial?"

Hallinan ran for U.S. president in 1956 as head of the Progressive Party. The party now is defunct.

"It is my opinion that he will serve about two years imprisonment," Hallinan said. In Berlin, Soviet journalists recently returned from Russia, forecast a sentence of death or life imprisonment but said it would probably be commuted later to about 10 years imprisonment.

The journalists said the impression in Moscow is that Powers will get a stiffer sentence than generally forecast in the West. Many Western observers anticipate a 10-year sentence.

The trial will start at 10 a.m. a.m. Wednesday (midnight, PDT) in the Hall of Columns of the House of the Union, an attractive green-painted building in the heart of the city. It will be Powers' 31st birthday.

Raiders Scour Homes, Hotels

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba's Congolese police swept through homes and hotels in Leopoldville today, arresting Europeans, United Nations personnel and a Canadian air control expert.

UN undersecretary Ralph Bunche intervened personally to obtain the release of two UN officers Congo police picked up. The police claimed the officers "were Belgians camouflaged under UN uniform."

The Congolese surrounded various buildings housing UN staff and detained many UN officials for identity purposes. They surrounded the big royal apartment building where the UN has its headquarters and hauled dozens of officials arriving for work about 8 a.m. into paddy wagons.

The officials were released when a fast shuttle service between officers and wagons brought out the pink identity cards to the police.

NABBED 4 TIMES

Bill Routliffe of Montreal, an air control expert at Ndolo airport in Leopoldville, was arrested by police four times in four blocks while walking to UN headquarters for an identity card. Each time he was allowed to go free. Another official was detained for an hour and released.

About 200 soldiers of the Congolese army also expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers from Leopoldville airport.

The paratroopers offered no resistance and marched off smartly to a Belgian plane and took off for the Belgian base at Kitona. They were the last Belgian troops in Leopoldville.

Thirteen civilian members of the Belgian military mission were expelled on the same plane. They had been found in the Belgian Embassy as Lumumba's army and police began their crackdown today.

Congolese troops also arrested Gaston Dieu, deputy president of the Belgian airline Sabena.

Roving police questioned scores of persons wearing UN armbands and searched their rooms.

AT LEAST 10 HELD

UN officials said at least 10 UN personnel were being held by the police.

Lumumba made his show of force some 12 hours after UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demands that UN troops enforce the premier's authority throughout the turbulent Congo.

Hammarskjold decided to return to the 11-nation council for new instructions after three bitter letters said he no longer had confidence in the secretary-general. The fiery Congolese leader presented demands for sweeping UN help in putting down dissidents against his rule and creation of an Asian-African commission to take over Hammarskjold's supervision of the UN effort in the strife-torn area.

The police checks followed charges by Lumumba Monday night in a broadcast speech that Belgian "spies" were being covered up through the issuance of UN armbands to them. UN officials denied the charge.

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND DEAD

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Police announced tonight the body of Graeme Thorne, eight-year-old kidnapped boy, was found in the suburb of Seaford.

The body was wrapped in blankets and tightly gagged and bound.

Graeme, son of lottery winner Basil Thorne, disappeared on his way to school July 7.

Ninety minutes after he left a phone caller with a foreign accent demanded $25,000 Australian ($56,000) ransom for his safe return. The parents sought to pay, but never were able to establish when and where the kidnappers wanted them to make contact.

The body was discovered near the spot Graeme's school bag, cap, school-books and other items were found a few days after he disappeared.

BERNSTEIN PERSONIFIES MUSIC HE'S INTERPRETING

'An Evening Without a Let-Down'

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Music Critic

VANCOUVER — Following close on the heels of a Chinese conquest from Peking, one of America's ace musical forces invaded Vancouver during the last two days of the International Festival and gathered its own thousands of converts.

Monday night at the capacity-packed Exhibition Forum, Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra brought a cheering, inspired audience to its feet at the end of the first of three concerts scheduled to conclude the festival.

SOLD OUT

This morning thousands of youngsters and adults again packed the Forum for one of Bernstein's celebrated children's concerts, while tonight a program, sold out long in advance, will be played in the Queen Elizabeth Theatre. From the first phrases of the three national anthems, transformed into heady, pulse-stirring stuff by sheer beauty of tone and Bernstein magic, to the last Bacchanalian passages of Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe" suite, it was an evening without a let-down in the quality of its inspiration.

WORTHY OF BEST

The orchestra is, inevitably, as close to perfection as one is likely to come, even though one may like this or that aspect of some other of the world's great orchestras better. Its 106 members comprise a magnificent sensitive, brilliant composite instrument, worthy of the best that can be given them in conductors.

And so they have Bernstein; one of those geniuses whose

BERNSTEIN
'they get the message'

like appears possibly once or twice in a century.

His many-faceted genius has provided him with the successful careers of conductor, composer, pianist, teacher, lecturer and author.

Yet it is obvious that he also might have been a very great actor. On the podium he personifies the music he is interpreting. He leaps into the air to emphasize a rhythmic point; his arms and hands become bird wings hovering delicately; his left hand clutches his breast, his face contorts in the turbulent spirit of the Frank D Minor Symphony. His shoulders assume an impudent cock and his hands manipulate the orchestra through seemingly impossible musical acrobatics in "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks".

But there is not for one moment a suggestion that he is indulging in any gallery

EVERY MEANS

The dynamic Mr. Bernstein simply uses every means at his disposal to communicate to his orchestra his musical desires.

And they get the message. They get it with such electric force that they play always with the utmost virtuosity, achieving one thrilling climax after another; or, on the other hand, passages of lyrical charm that are equally as breath-taking in their own way.

Certainly Bernstein conjures every instrument into revealing its full potential and in an ensemble such as the New York Philharmonic that adds up to a maximum effect in orchestral color and eloquence.

NEW 'SUPER ROCKET' TO SCOUT THE MOON

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—U.S. space expert Werner von Braun today described a "super rocket" planned to scout the moon before man arrives as the biggest international space parley to date settled down to work.

Von Braun told the 11th International Astronautical Congress the rocket would be a four-stage version of the powerful three-stage U.S. Saturn rocket now undergoing static engine tests.

The German-born rocket expert told the 700 delegates from 33 countries the "super rocket" would have twice the capacity of the three-stage Saturn complex.

The Saturn was expected to make its first flight in 1964 and was believed capable of a "soft" landing—as opposed to crashing—on the moon, von Braun, director of the guided missile development division of the army missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., said.

CONGO

ean, Ghanian, Ethiopian, Sudanese, Tunisian, Liberian and Congolese forces.

3. That UN troops guarding airports be replaced by Lumumba's Congolese Army and police.

4. That planes be provided to fly his Congolese troops throughout the country "to re-establish order."

5. That all arms and ammunition distributed by the Belgians in Katanga to native troops loyal to Tshombe be seized and turned over to the central government.

The premier insisted the council's resolution of Aug. 9 provided that UN troops could be used to "reduce the rebel government of Katanga." The resolution provided "that the United Nations forces in the Congo will not be a party to, or in any way intervene in, or be used to influence, the outcome of any internal conflict, constitutional or otherwise."

A Moscow broadcast early today said the Congolese apparently would have to disperse with UN services if they were to restore order and ensure their nation's territorial integrity.

The broadcast, beamed to Africa, accused the UN of failing to take "resolute action" in the Congo.

MONTREAL—The case of the painted lady had detectives combing downtown night clubs Monday night in an effort to find out who daubed Miss T. Meckinson green.

Miss Meckinson, 20, was discovered at dawn Monday seated on the steps of the Royal Victoria Hospital, wearing nothing but a blanket and a coat of green water paint from head to toe.

Police said one man has been arrested in connection with the case and released on bail. Two others are being sought.

Though incoherent for about an hour after she was found, Miss Meckinson later filed a complaint against three men whom she said she had met casually the previous night.

Nurses gave her a thorough scrubbing but traces of the water paint still showed Monday night as Miss Meckinson accompanied detectives in a search of the clubs for the fugitives.

MUSKEGON, Mich.—Deputy Tom Miller took a look at the car that passed him Monday and ordered the driver, William Hunsucker, to pull over. Here's what Miller reported he found:
Defective steering, brakes and tail lights; broken fenders on both rear doors; defective tires; improper display of licence plates, and floorboards nearly eaten through by rust.
Hunsucker agreed to leave the car at a service station. But as he moved it, both doors on the left side swung open and both rear doors fell off. Cited for improper steering, he left the car at the station for junk.

OAKLAND, Calif.—A 30-ton tank rumbled through 12 blocks of Oakland, smashing houses and trees.

Victorians Warm Up To Smile Show

Victorians seem to be catching on to Jerry Gosley's Summer Smile Show, now in its final week at the Langham Court Theatre.

"For eight years past 75 per cent of our supporters have been visitors from the United States," Mr. Gosley said. "Now we are getting more local enthusiasts—and we are more than glad of them."

Popular Victoria baritone John Dunbar sings eight songs in the show this week, supported by bonny Margaret Thomson, Len Evans, Reg Stone and the ever-versatile Gosley.

DISCOVERIES

Two newcomers to the program are Bob Dawson and Frank Keifer, former stage hands whose talents as pianist and guitarist were discovered only recently.

Many local residents have seen the show twice and some three times. A number were turned away Saturday night and those wishing to make reservations this week are asked to phone EV 6-5311.

One of the most popular songs in the show is Jerry Gosley's own composition, "The Colorful Land That I Love," dedicated to British Columbia and illustrated with vivid color slides of B.C.

B.C. $9.6 Million 'Short' On Road, Works Spending

British Columbia spent $9,679,779 less on highways and public works in the fiscal year ending last March 31 than it had planned to do.

This was one of the chief reasons why the province—in the year which saw the repayment of all direct debt accomplished—ended with an overall budget surplus of $5,147,336 rather than a deficit.

The detailed figures were disclosed for the first time when Premier Bennett Monday afternoon released an "abridged version" of public accounts for 1959-60 several months ahead of the usual release time.

While saving this large sum on roads and buildings, the Premier used $18,906,000 of his revenues in order to pay the last allocation on the debt.

Had the debt payment not been made there would have been funds available to carry out the full scheduled program of works.

The highway allocations were underspent by $7,203,000 and the appropriations for construction by $1,344,000.

GEARED TO REVENUE

The underspending on the flexible public works appropriation is in line with the government's pay-as-you-go policy. The spending on works has customarily been geared to the amount of revenue collected.

The accounts disclosed that Mr. Bennett collected from all

MONORAILS RULED OUT BY CNR PRESIDENT

HALIFAX (CP)—CNR president Donald Gordon said today he does not think monorail systems offer any solution to today's transportation problems.

"Personally," he said, "I don't see any future for monorails."

He told a press conference that high initial cost is one of the factors that, in his opinion, make monorail systems uneconomic.

Monorail systems operate trains or cars on an elevated single-rail. However, on some systems the rail is at ground level.

Mr. Gordon said the future of railroad passenger business appears to lie in rapid intercity traffic rather than in long-haul or commuter traffic. Speed gave the edge to the airlines for passengers making long trips, he said.

... too costly.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

WATER SAFE AT PROSPECT SAYS BEATTIE

There is no danger yet of water pollution at Prospect Lake, according to Dr. A. N. Beattie, Saanich medical health officer.

Dr. Beattie, who conducted tests of the water following charges of pollution, said Monday the pollution level at Prospect Lake is far below that of other swimming lakes in the municipality.

He said the pollution count was only 13 at Prospect Lake on July 28 while at Elk Lake's northwest beach and at Glen Lake on the same day it was 920.

Danger point is 1,000. Dr. Beattie, however, advised lake residents to boil all lake water before drinking.

Had $157,000, Lived as Pauper

NEW YORK (AP) — Police tallied up assets of more than $157,000 today from the litter-cramped apartment of a dead semi-recluse.

A night-long count, started after the body was discovered Monday, showed $45,057 in cash, more than $112,000 in bank balances, plus assorted savings bonds, securities and cheques.

Bills of $1,000 and $500 denominations were stuffed among piles of faded newspapers and other debris. The body of 73-year-old George Aichele, son of a wealthy real estate man, was discovered after neighbors complained of odors. He had been dead more than two weeks.

Aichele had kept visitors from his home since a brother who lived with him died in 1947.

Another brother, Henry, the secretary-treasurer of the Franklin Savings Bank, died four years ago, also in a setting of accumulated debris. It took six months to clear out his home.

At least 80 bank books, with deposits ranging from $10 to $10,000 were found scattered through George's 86th Street apartment.

Besides junk piled in the sparsely furnished flat on the sixth floor were unopened cases of whisky and liqueurs, a new icebox filled with food, a birdcage and a zither. Some of the newspapers dated back almost 100 years.

For years Aichele wore the same outfit: a brown sports jacket, brown trousers, old-fashioned high shoes and battered grey hat.

Aichele had lived in the apartment 50 years. He often opened accounts with small sums, his lawyer, George Dickinson explained, to get gifts offered by banks to new depositors.

'Battlefields' Outlined By Premier

Premier Bennett has announced the first "swing" of his campaign for re-election. It culminates in a big rally in Victoria.

The Peace River is to be the premier's battleground, and he told a press conference the choice of the opener was deliberate.

His first public speech of the campaign is next Monday at Fort St. John.

"It's of some importance that the premier is going to open his campaign in the Peace River country," said Mr. Bennett.

"I've got something to say," he promised, indicating it would concern development of the area, which includes the site of the $600 million Peace River hydro project. Fort St. John is also the terminus of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

OPEN BRIDGE
Mr. Bennett's other engagements are:

Aug. 23, Dawson Creek.
Aug. 24, Prince George.
Aug. 25, opening of the new Second Narrows Bridge in Vancouver.

Hurdle Faces Phone Centre

Saanich council Monday by a vote of four to three approved a motion to rezone to light industrial use 4½ acres of land near Swan Lake where the B.C. Telephone Co. plans to build a $300,000 divisional service centre.

The motion authorizes the preparation of a bylaw, but it will require a two-thirds majority—at least five votes—to pass when it is submitted to council for final approval.

EXPERTS OPPOSED
The motion to rezone the site situated on the east side of the Patricia Bay Highway near the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway was passed in the face of strong opposition from the advisory planning commission, town planner Tony Parr and Brahm Wiesman, director of the Capital Region Planning Board.

U.S. Air Force Capt. Joseph Kittinger today made a successful parachute bail-out from a balloon 102,200 feet above the New Mexico desert. He was in the air 13 minutes, 8 seconds, opening his chute at 17,500 feet after falling free for four minutes. The altitude was record for both the jump and the ascent of a manned balloon. Capt. Kittinger is pictured here in an earlier spectacular jump.

Answer Charges, Druggists Urged

SASKATOON (CP) — The pharmaceutical industry and druggists must take the offensive in the "continuing public controversy" over the price of drugs, D. A. Denholm of Vancouver, registrar of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association, said Monday.

He told the annual convention of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association that pharmacists must "sell" themselves for what they are—a profession dedicated to serving the health of the people.

Speaking during a symposium, Mr. Denholm said pharmacists were startled by the ignorance of the public of the "what, why and how" of Canadian pharmacy and were agitated at public efforts to "crucify" the industry.

He said attacks on the industry for alleged high prices resulted from "the irresponsible panic of a certain United States senator... determined to set himself up in the public eye as a saviour..."

Dr. C. A. Morrell, head of the federal food and drug directorate, told the panel the integrity of the maker is the priceless ingredient of a drug. He said the first responsibility for the quality of a drug lies with the manufacturer.

"He makes them, and he profits by them, and he is responsible for them."

'Name' Drugs Upheld

SASKATOON (CP) — Canada's chief drug inspector, C. A. Morrell, says there is a great danger of "ineffectual" or "over-potent" drugs when the consumer disregards brand names and buys drugs by their chemical name.

'Go It Alone' On Medical Plan

A "do-it-yourself" medical care plan was proposed to the provincial government Monday night by a Victoria Social Creditor.

J. Donald Smith, MLA for the city in the last legislative session, went one better than Premier Bennett.

Mr. Smith urged his party to go ahead with a medical plan on its own initiative. Premier Bennett has proposed a federally shared plan.

The Smith plan would provide coverage at the two extremes — youth and old age. "I would like to see the provincial government—in the absence of support from the senior government—at least take care of children up to the age of 16 and people of 60 and up," he told a public meeting in St. Alban's Hall here.

BUS PASSES

Mr. Smith reiterated an old campaign plea for bus passes for old-age pensioners.

This time, however, he suggested they be effective only in "off hours."

Appearing with Mr. Smith were fellow-candidates Waldo Skillings and Works Minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Chant said "we even surprised ourselves" by the amount of works and projects in the government's eight-year reign.

The Great Decision

FROM THE LONG CONFUSION of Canadian defence policy a clear political issue has emerged. The Government, though it has made no final announcement, evidently intends to equip some military forces with nuclear weapons. The Liberal Opposition believes that Canada should accept none of these weapons from the United States. Thus the lines of disagreement on a question of the highest importance are clearly drawn.

With its majority, the Government can go ahead with its policy, even if, as the Ottawa correspondents report, Mr. Howard Green is opposed to it. The first step will be to negotiate an agreement under which United States nuclear warheads stored in Canada or provided for Canadian forces will be theoretically under the joint control of the two countries. How this can be arranged is still uncertain, for United States law provides exclusive American control of such weapons.

Assuming that this difficulty is overcome by a formula acceptable in Ottawa, the Bomarc missiles at the two bases in Ontario and Quebec will have nuclear warheads and apparently some Canadian planes in the NATO forces of Europe will carry atomic bombs.

The Government's policy represents one of the largest decisions in Canadian history. It means that Canada is joining the "nuclear club" so far confined, in the Western world, to Britain, the United States and France. It also means that the United States will be given a much larger control over Canadian defence policy than it has now. Finally it conflicts with the Government's other policy, as often announced by Mr. Green, of opposing any further atomic tests anywhere, for any reason.

Mr. Pearson has flatly opposed the use of atomic weapons by Canadian forces for three main reasons.

First, he believes that the spread of these weapons beyond the three great Western powers creates terrible dangers to peace. If such lethal devices are to be farmed out to more and more nations, where will the process end? Later on, Mr. Pearson fears, peace may be at the mercy of some irresponsible government capable of starting a world war. While Canada does not fall into that class, it will set a dangerous precedent if it accepts atomic weapons which, incidentally, will be controlled in fact, if not in theory, by another nation.

Second, Mr. Pearson regards atomic weapons as unnecessary and irrelevant to Canada's defence. The only purpose of these weapons, in the existing world crisis, is their power to deter aggression by Russia. The United States already possesses this deterrent and is increasing it every day with new missiles. Canada cannot add anything to it. Does anyone suppose that two Canadian Bomarc bases (useless against missiles anyway) will affect Russia's decision to attack or not to attack America? Of course not.

Third, Mr. Pearson holds that in joining the nuclear club as a junior member Canada is wasting its military expenditures. They should be concentrated, he believes, where they will be of some practical value, whereas they are now spread thin and are of very little use to us or our allies.

In opposing the Government's nuclear policy, Mr. Pearson is proposing a complete revision of our defence program.

Since we should not, and in fact cannot, play in the big league of nuclear power, lacking the money for this sort of armament, we should concentrate on some task within our means.

Since we cannot and need not add to the atomic deterrent designed to prevent the ultimate war, we should build up mobile striking forces useful in brush-fire wars or in the United Nations' interventions at points of danger.

Canada, in short, should make a real, practical, useful contribution to the free world's defence instead of making a series of gestures which, at great cost, buy little more than prestige and not much of that.

Mr. Pearson rejects any thought of neutrality as advocated by a few, a very few Canadians. He does not propose that our defence budget be cut significantly. He asks only that our money be spent where it may do some good.

There is the issue between the Government and the Opposition, the sharpest and most vital issue of these times because it involves far more than money. It involves not only the defence but the independence of the nation. The Canadian people will have to settle this issue, among others, at the next election.

With an Eye to the Future

THE UNITED NATIONS' police troops in Katanga province and the rest of the Congo appear to be successfully carrying out one of the most delicate missions the international body has been called upon to perform. The preliminary diplomatic manoeuvring had to be as cautious as the troop deployment, but Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, the UN Secretary General, accomplished it.

In a country torn by rioting in its new-found independence and rocked by the secession of its richest province, the UN keep-the-peace force had to overcome opposition from both of the native government leaders and the resentment of the Belgian forces which it was ordered to replace.

That under such conditions the UN operation has been carried out peacefully speaks well for the organization of the force and the actions of its members.

There was much more to this incident than the mere restoration of order in an African territory. The future of the United Nations as a factor in world peace was itself at stake in no small measure.

For if the United Nations is to be effective in preserving world peace it must have enough co-operation among its members to enable it to move quickly and authoritatively, it must have the ready provision of member states' troops, and it must carry the prestige of world opinion to back up its actions.

An Evening to Save a Life

THE VICTORIA EVENING OPTIMIST Club has chosen an appropriate time to sponsor the showing of a documentary film on mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration.

Tragedies in this locality and elsewhere during the hot summer period draw public attention to the need for information on such life-saving techniques. No one can say at what moment, if ever, he may be in a position to save a fellow human from death if he has the knowledge implicit in practical life-saving.

The film, to be shown tomorrow evening at Oak Bay Junior High School, starting at 7.30, provides an opportunity for members of the public to learn something about a useful and effective means of reviving the apparently drowned. To parents, it might mean the difference between losing or saving one of their children. To others it could mean the difference between the life or death of a family member or friend.

"... been like that for days. Funniest campaign we've ever had ..."

FROM OTTAWA

They Were Convicted, Fined and Restrained

In the judgment of Mr. Justice Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court in the Electrical Contractors Association of Ontario combine prosecution had been delivered prior to June, 1957, there would have been little public interest.

It would have been a simple case of a group of contractors being convicted and fined for forming a combine and attempting to put it into operation. There had been many similar convictions and fines under the federal Liberal administration. Such convictions, because the combine failed, are not nearly as interesting, or as damaging, to the public as the combines which succeed in destroying competition and boosting prices to the consumers.

Mr. Justice Wells found this particular combine guilty under section 411 of the Criminal Code—the section which makes it a crime to prevent or lessen competition unduly—and fined it $7,500. The association had a membership of between 800 and 1,000 electrical contractors and, if the fine were spread evenly among them, it would be very trifling indeed.

But it should be remembered, as Mr. Justice Wells points out, that the combine did not succeed. It failed. The conviction was for the conspiracy or the attempt to destroy competition and boost prices.

Fully Exposed

The conspiracy dated from January 1, 1953. This combine was caught, investigated and fully exposed by the St. Laurent government. The minister in charge was Hon. Stuart Garson.

When the Diefenbaker government took office in June, 1957, the case was complete. All that Mr. Garson's successor, Hon. Davie Fulton, had to do was to approve the prosecution in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The judgment is of special interest because it throws into sharp relief the weakness of the arguments of those who, in fact, favor combines.

These people have been advocating amendments to the Combines Act and the Criminal Code which almost certainly would enable many combines to pass as lawful. Also, this case is significant because it exposes the risk of creating loopholes in the Combines Act.

Conservative amendments approved by Parliament in the past month remove the Criminal Code entirely from this field.

The Diefenbaker Government notwithstanding the resistance of the Liberal and CCF opposition parties and the representations of various persons and organizations, amended the Combines Act this session and, in doing so, created seven distinct and separate loopholes.

If a combine can show that it was created to achieve one or more of these seven objects, and is not trying to abolish competition and raise prices, it will, hereafter, be held to be lawful.

Curious Fact

This electrical contractors' association or combine was created by letters patent issued by the Ontario government in 1948. It did not get into operation until 1953. But it is a curious fact that most of the official purposes of the association as stated in 1948 fit the loophole provisions of the Diefenbaker amendments of 1960.

But as Mr. Justice Wells observed: "... in these matters, the documents were more important in what they meant rather than in what they said. There is no doubt that there was some unsuccessful effort made to conceal what was sought to be done."

It is revealing to consider the changes advocated by those who seem to favor combines, with what actually happened in this case.

In a letter from Mr. R. M. Fowler, head of the Canadian Newspaper Association, which appeared a year ago, the viewpoint of this group was well expressed, as follows: "... the test for the courts ... would need to be ... of specific and actual public detriment arising from the industrial agreement."

The pulpwood combine showed one great fallacy in this kind of reasoning. This combine was highly successful. Over a period of nearly eight years it controlled the price paid to farmers on two million cords of pulpwood per year.

Producers Robbed

The combine netted the pulp and paper companies that formed it anywhere from $15 millions to $75 millions in profits which, later, were found to have been criminally acquired. The producers were robbed of this money.

But who can say how much, specifically and actually—the farmers lost? The only test here—an impossible one—would be to turn back the clock, live the period anew and ensure an open, competitive market for pulpwood. Then a comparison of prices would be possible.

In this electrical contractors case, there was no actual damage done because the combine failed. The leaders entered into the conspiracy, made the agreement binding themselves and no doubt would have succeeded, given more time.

But the Liberal government at Ottawa, stepped in, seized the incriminating documents and put an end to the conspiracy.

The electrical contractors did not achieve their purpose. They failed. But the courts, under the Liberal law, found them guilty of conspiracy, of entering into an agreement to lessen competition unduly and thereby to do specific and actual injury to the public. They were convicted, fined and restrained from resuming their efforts.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Protection Needed

Far too little attention is paid these days to the danger that Canadians may lose their fundamental democratic freedoms. A glaring example is the planned new Canadian political party to be formed by the submerging of the CCF party into the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC).

The foundation upon which this labor party is going to be built and operated is the compulsory closed shop clauses in labor-management agreements, with the help of which workers are going to be compelled to belong to this new party or not be allowed to work and make a living for themselves and their families.

It would be the most flagrant denial of fundamental political freedom of Canadian citizens, leading to an ultimate dictatorship.

It has been conceded that dictatorship will be necessary to keep the new party going. At a recent farmer-labor teacher meeting in Saskatchewan, Mr. Douglas Fisher, outspoken CCF Member of Parliament, said that he doubted that there would be much room for free expression by ordinary members of the party.

Political parties, free from compulsion, unhindered by a dictatorship, are the frame-work of our Canadian democratic system. It is therefore of the utmost importance to all Canadians, from coast to coast, that a Bill of Rights should incorporate some safe-guarding clauses that would protect Canadian citizens from being forced, against their will, into a political party.

Why Not Subsidize CPR?

As the coming election campaign opens, there are many of us puzzled about many things. Perhaps it would clear the air if we expressed our various puzzlements through the press.

For instance, I often wonder, is B.C. private industry losing its initiative to the point where government must step in. And, if so, why? Why is it that a company of such long standing and experience as the CPR could not operate a ferry service to Vancouver from Victoria without losing money, and yet the government jumps in?

Of course, we cannot yet know if the government is making the ferry pay, and all the initial costs of building etc., have yet to be met. It remains to be seen what happens. But if they do make it pay, then why not private enterprise? As we are supposed to be a democratic state and not socialistic, would it not have been possible to subsidize the CPR rather than build new ferries at tremendous cost.

There must be a reason and I would like to know it. Did the CPR refuse to co-operate and was any offer made by the B.C. Government to help them?

Another question that is in my mind is: Is it necessary for the B.C. Government to operate a "trading post" in San Francisco? Why does private enterprise not do this? Any business operation carried out by the government must be paid for out of government revenues and taxation. Government is not in business to make a profit as is private enterprise. Can we not help ourselves without the government going into business? Surely this provides rather unfair competition to private business.

At least that is the way it appears to me and it puzzles me. I, of course, do not know what goes on behind the scenes, I only see part of the picture. I feel sure there are others who are puzzled about certain things which will affect the way we vote, and if we can air our difficulties and exchange opinions, it will help us to become informed and use our votes wisely.

Peking Opera Threat?

As a visitor from England I am struck by the beauty of Canada and of Victoria and by the warmth of friendship of the people.

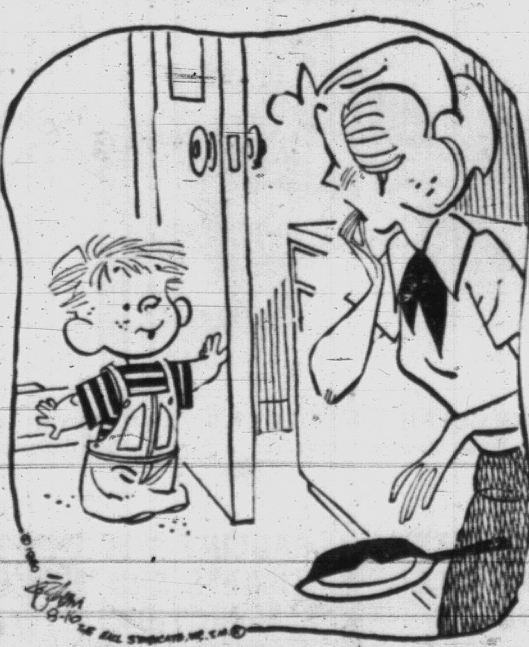

But there is one thing here that disturbs me as it does in England, viz. the noticeable lack of awareness of Communist infiltration in whatever guise.

I was shocked to learn that so many Victorians, including Girl Guides, have fallen for the bait of the Peking Opera. It is a known fact that good money earned by Communist "cultural" activities, such as the Peking Opera and Bolshoi Ballet, is used against the country concerned to finance its own destruction.

So, wake up Canada, before it is too late!

Objective: Death

The Manchester Guardian Weekly

THE International Commission of Jurists has published the report of its Legal Inquiry Committee on Tibet.

The committee's conclusions had already been made public in June: that the Chinese have committed acts of genocide in an attempt to destroy the Tibetans as a religious group; that they have violated most of the human rights formulated in the Universal Declaration of the United Nations; that before 1951 Tibet was an independent state at least de facto; and that the repudiation of the 1951 agreement with the Chinese restored that status.

These findings, even if they are not universally accepted, provide a ground in international law on which the cause of Tibet can be fought for. But barely stated, as they were in June, they give no idea of the overpowering impact of the full report.

In evidence it quotes freely from statements taken from Tibetan refugees (including the Dalai Lama). This evidence is necessarily one-sided, for the Chinese Government would give none of its own and would not allow the committee to visit China or Tibet.

But the picture that it pieces together is coherent and credible—of a vigorous and ruthless people as utterly convinced of the superiority over the people they have come to rule as ever were Europeans set among "natives" in the most unquestioning days of European colonization.

Low Opinion

"An ignorant, inferior people" who badly need an infusion of Chinese blood—thus the refugees report the Chinese opinion of them; the Tibetans themselves can never change their "green brains."

So ignorant are they that, as a Communist-controlled Lhasa paper put it in 1957, "although a small portion of the masses enthusiastically demand reform, the large portion of the masses still lack such enthusiasm."

And why? Another Tibetan Communist paper gave the answer: "The economic and cultural backwardness and the sparse population (of Tibet) was due to the poisonous effect of religion."

Religion, Chairman Mao Tse-tung told the Dalai Lama, was "something bad." Tibetan Communists, according to one of them who later became a refugee, were taught that "religion was the main target to be destroyed."

And so the humiliations to which lamas, monks, and nuns were subjected.

Three pits were dug and the lamas were placed inside. The public were then made to urinate on them. The Chinese then invited the lamas to fly out of the pit.

Temples were desecrated, monasteries destroyed, monks ordered to take wives on pain of torture or death. Thousands died of torture or death; one refugee, "while he was in the hills

... saw lamas gathered from the monasteries in the district and estimated that in the course of 15 days about 1,000 lamas were executed in public."

Strict Interpretation

The committee, keeping strictly, as was right, to the narrow definition of the law, did not feel that the killing of monks and lamas resisting the Chinese could be treated as genocidal; it was satisfied that there was sufficient proof of the destruction of Tibetans as a race, nation, or ethnic group.

"In brief," it concluded, "acts condemned as genocidal have been committed to destroy Buddhism in Tibet, and the intent is that there shall be no Buddhists left there."

But the distinction seems more real in law than in life and death.

Refugees from some areas told strange (and mutually consistent) stories of a surgical operation they had undergone at the hands of Chinese doctors. Clinical examination of these Tibetans did not show that they had in fact been sterilized as they believed, and so the committee regarded this charge as not proven.

But it would be interesting to know what this operation was for; a medical assessment of the evidence might have been a valuable appendix to the report. The committee was satisfied that large numbers of children were taken from their parents and sent to China; it believes that "at least part of the objective was to cut off the Tibetan children from religious influence and teaching, thereby to further the destruction of Buddhism in Tibet," and that this constitutes an act of genocide.

Immediate Question

The validity of the committee's findings in law must be left for lawyers to decide; for those who want to know what is going on in Tibet a more immediate question is whether the evidence quoted in the report can be accepted.

One can only say that the refugees' accounts are more consistent than Chinese official statements with known facts: that a desperate rebellion continues against all odds, and that in spite of the welcome which Tibetans are now supposed to be giving to the benefits derived from their "liberation" they are still fleeing the country to get away from them.

The committee, if it has not sat as arbiter, has made a powerful case for the prosecution; it is up to the Chinese to refute it.

Smell of Wet Wood and Ice

It seems only yesterday that the Memorial Arena was opened. Yet kids not born when that great day arrived have been scrambling around the ice since then on legs as rubbery as those of newly dropped foals. Some of them have gone on to a degree of proficiency.

Now Esquimalt is embarked on a rink project and more kids will learn to skate. At least I hope they'll have enough ice time to develop a skating ability difficult to achieve in the crowded schedule of the existing arena.

When they created the Blanshard Street plant—with blood, toil, tears, sweat and a lot of dough—I figured I'd get back into skating. I had overlooked a primary fact impressed on most aging athletes—the knees go first, and with them the wind.

Once around on skates that were a little small for me and my legs ached. Breath came into my lungs in sawing gulps—rough-edged sawing at that. Small children were underfoot. An increasing flow of ex-prairie folk went whizzing by and I was forced to the reluctant conclusion that I was no longer the demon on the blades retrospect had made me think I was.

Half a dozen more attempts, towing small fry with flexible ankles, and I'd had the course. But I have my memories.

Some of us Foul Bay boys came up to ice from old roller hockey days on Mills Street. It was getting monotonous beating the Bank Street crowd—the Lenson boys, Clin Chatton and Red Lawson, so we turned to the new element for variety.

I reached the old Patrick rink on Fort Street with a pair of Sheffield steel rockered blades anchored in wooden frames and screwed onto a pair of old Leckie boots that were getting small anyhow. Mother had brought the skates out from Bradford and had quit skating before she came.

It didn't take us long to grow familiar with ice—from the seat of our pants to the back of our heads. When you laid out 15 cents for skating, you'd made too big an investment not to skate and enjoy it, even if it killed you.

We didn't play much ice hockey. That cost four bits a throw, if memory serves. And who had four bits?

Still we did learn to skate, clockwise, that is. When they reversed a couple of times in the course of an afternoon or evening, you could count bodies dropping like flies.

By the time we were at High School, we figured we were pretty good, skating backwards when "Blackie" Blackstock didn't stop us, and Dutch-rolling all over the rink.

We couldn't match strides with the odd Cougar who'd turn out occasionally, or with Frank Pomeroy. "Pongo" had too long legs. And we weren't as fast as Wes "Nellie" Nelson. But we managed.

We were good enough to ask Beth Grimison, Peggy Humber, Pat Hudson, the Dane girls and a few others from Oak Bay High for "hands" and they seemed to enjoy it. And when we went to dances we never tired of saying how much better it would be skating.

I never quite made the Rink Rats—those privileged and proficient youngsters who got in free just for scraping the ice after sessions though I did push a scraper occasionally. That way you got a pass admitting you to night skating or Saturday afternoon when the price was up around 40 cents.

You got to know the folk at the rink—Ralph Alcock who was a friendly sort of handyman, Fred Sandiford, who was the engineer, and you saw, occasionally, Lester Patrick, a sort of godlike image.

You breathed in the chill air, developed an almost narcotic addiction for the smell of wet, blade-chewed wood where you ran up the gangways from the changing rooms, and considered yourselves if not gay blades, at least pretty fancy figures on them.

With another rink coming along, more of today's kids should know the intoxication of skating—the speed, the chill, the smell of ice, the scraping sibilance of blades whipping over it. Probably a lot of people in Esquimalt were thinking of those enjoyments when they voted "yes" last Saturday.

EARLY APPROVAL by Senate is hoped for army chief of staff Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, nominated by President Eisenhower as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff to succeed Gen. Nathan F. Twining, due to retire. The appointment hints of an extensive shake-up in the high command as the Eisenhower administration nears the end of its last term.

Peace Officers to Fight Coming Integration Move

Any move by municipal councils to integrate fire and police departments should be strongly opposed, the British Columbia Federation of Peace Officers decided at the end of a one-day meeting in the Ingraham Hotel, Monday.

The topic is likely to arise at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in September and the federation's executive was empowered—if the need arose—to prepare and present a brief to the government.

Oak Bay council is known to be considering integration of its police and fire departments.

'They're Not Ready For Gov't'—Bennett

Critics of the B.C. Public Utilities Commission showed "immature leadership" over the Pacific Northern Railway issue, Premier Bennett said Monday.

The PUC last week announced a public hearing Sept. 2 into the status of the railway.

CCF leader Robert Strachan branded the move "collusion" between government and PUC.

Other opposition leaders attacked the timing and motive of the hearing.

At Mr. Bennett's request, the hearing was postponed until Oct. 4.

"They should check a little before they go off on these wild stories," said Mr. Bennett. "It shows they are not ready for government when they jump that fast."

Cpl. Jack Groves, of Oak Bay, said the council there had studied the experimental integration at East Kildonan, Winnipeg, with a view to following suit and, in their minds, making a saving.

But, he claimed, there would be no reduction in staff and no reduction in costs for the taxpayer.

One man was needed to do one job and efficiency all along the line would suffer, he said.

"Integration will work," he said—"provided there are no fires."

President Lorne Shandley, of Victoria, was re-elected to his fourth term in office during the afternoon session.

Others re-elected were Robert Peterson, Saanich, first vice-president; Fred Mercer, New Westminster, second vice-president; Jack Thomas, Vancouver, secretary-treasurer; and Robin Stewart, Saanich; Ken Hill, West Vancouver, and Jack Groves, Oak Bay, trustees.

Beware of Shock Treatment

Some forty years ago in England it was quite common to see house plants set along the sidewalks whenever there was a summer shower.

Rain water was considered so beneficial that one child in the family was charged with the responsibility of putting the plants outside as the first drops fell, taking them in when the storm had passed, and wiping the foliage before replacing them in the glazed jardiniere or wicker fern stand.

This was brought to mind last Sunday afternoon when I saw house plants on the walks of several gardens, evidently put there to benefit from the long-awaited rainfall.

Whether such a practice will be beneficial to these plants or be the start of a succession of troubles, is something the owners will determine in the near future.

TOUGH PLANT

The predominant house plant in England half a century ago was the aspidistra, which was commonly called the Cast-Iron Plant because it would grow under the most adverse conditions. It could well stand a cold shower and find it beneficial.

But fashions have changed in house plants. The aspidistras have been replaced with tropical and semi-tropical plants such as philodendrons, dieffenbachias, rubber plants (ficus), jade plants (crassula), succulents and cacti.

DON'T LIKE CHANGE

While some of these may be gradually subjected to outdoor conditions and then left outside for the hot weather, they do not take kindly to sudden temperature changes or draughts.

Indoor temperatures have been high for the past two weeks, 80 degrees or more during the day and 70 at night. Moving a tropical plant from these temperatures to an outdoor 60 with cold rain on the foliage, could result in a shock sufficient to cause leaf browning, leaf dropping, and the collapse of the tender growing tip.

U.S. Balking Red Airlift Soviets Say

LONDON (AP)—The Russians complained Sunday that Soviet planes in the relief airlift to the Congo were being subjected to "provocations" by Americans and Belgians.

A Tass news agency dispatch, broadcast by Moscow Radio, said that for three days a Soviet plane in Leopoldville could not carry food to the Congo interior because it couldn't get fuel. Said Tass:

"There had been fuel at Leopoldville airport, but it had disappeared somewhere. The hand of the Belgians and the Americans could be felt in this."

Tass said that on another occasion Soviet airmen went to the airport control tower to assist in the landing of three Russian planes.

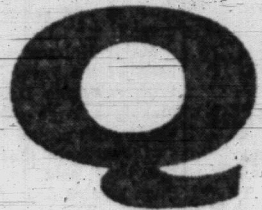

"In the control tower were Americans and Belgians," Tass said. "After the Russians had explained the purpose of their coming, somebody switched off the radio station's power."

That night, all three Soviet aircraft made blind landings in bad visibility.

Moon Trip Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The United States Air Force sealed two pilots in a space cabin Monday for a make-believe flight to the moon in which they will test equipment which may be used on real space voyages.

RUSS FAVORS SPACE PLANS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A Russian satellite expert Monday spoke in favor of international space projects. Prof. Leonid I. Sedov, chairman of the space committee of the Soviet Academy of Science, said: "There are some space experiments which are so difficult and so expensive they demand co-operation between several countries."

Capt. William D. Habuettel, 36, and 1st Lieut. John W. Hargraves, 30, saw the door of the capsule-shaped cabin swing shut at 1 p.m. How long they will stay inside will be determined by performances of the pilots and equipment. The pair will set a record for space cabin occupancy if they stay longer than 14 days. Two enlisted men completed a two-week simulated flight in February.

LONDON (Reuters)—An American expert on criminal rehabilitation told the United Nations crime congress today that the United States spends about $20,000,000,000 annually on apprehending and detaining criminals but almost nothing on crime prevention.

Kenyon J. Scudder, national director of the field service department of the Osborn Association, said he thought the money would be made available only if the taxpayers were impressed with the gravity of the problem.

Russian delegate G. S. Tsvyrcov, head of the Russian public prosecutor's department, said the Soviet Union has banned all books glorifying crime and criminals.

A Canadian delegate, William Belmont, deputy attorney general for Ontario, said cheap comic books and films undoubtedly had a bad effect on youth.

Scudder said he did not think the elimination of violence from television and comic books was an answer to the delinquency problem. But he thought notice might be taken of a jingle current in the United States:

"Sing a song of TV for the little ones.
"Four and twenty jailbirds, packing tommy guns.
"When the scene is finished the blood is ankle deep.
"Wasn't that a pretty dish to send the kids to sleep."

'STARTLING INCREASE' IN U.S. CRIME FIGURES

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Monday reported a "startling" increase in United States crime during first six months of 1960, as reflected in preliminary reports from police in cities of more than 25,000 population.

The report said these urban areas had a 9 per cent crime increase as compared with the first half of 1959, with jumps in every major offense category.

For the six-month period, robberies were up 13 per cent, the highest increase. Burglaries followed closely with a 12 per cent rise, and larcenies involving sums over $50 rose 8 per cent.

Murders, the report showed, advanced 6 per cent, forcible rape and auto theft 5 per cent, and aggravated assault 4 per cent.

S. African Refugee Weds Colored Girl

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—A white South African political refugee and the colored girl he was prevented from marrying by their country's racial laws became man and wife here Sunday.

Arnold Selby of Johannesburg, 42-year-old general secretary of the African Textile Workers' Union, and Janet Thomas, 27-year-old garment worker, were married by Philip Archer, Ghana's registrar general.

Their daughter Lorna watched the five-minute civil ceremony in a room at the home of Attorney-General Geoffrey Bing.

Selby, who has been a political detainee 10 times in the last 12 years, said that during the five years of their engagement he and Miss Thomas were "hounded constantly by the police, who wanted to catch us together so as to convict us under the Immorality Act, which forbids mixed marriages or relationships and which carries seven years' imprisonment and five lashes." Selby plans to remain in Ghana for the time being as a political refugee. He said he would act as representative of the Christian Action Council to look after any other South African political refugees who come to Ghana.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lee James, age 12, of Houston, Texas, for his question:

How big is Mars in relation to the earth?

We expect that Mars will be the first planet our astronauts will visit when mankind sets forth to cross the vast ocean of space. Naturally then, we are all curious about what this new world will be like. Many of the answers will have to wait until we get there. For example, we do not know for sure whether there is any kind of plant life on the Red Planet, though most experts suspect that there are at least plants. We do, however, know a great deal about the planet itself and have a good idea what precautions and protections the first visitors to Mars will need.

Most of us know that Mars is somewhat smaller than the earth, but we tend to think that this is not important enough to make much difference. This is far from true. Mars is a good deal smaller than the earth and this will make a great deal of difference to our earth-trained muscles. One good way to measure a planet is from its diameter, a straight line from side to side through the exact center. The diameter of the earth is about 7,927 miles. The diameter of Mars is about 4,200 miles.

In this respect, Mars is only a little more than half as big as the earth. In volume, the earth could swallow almost seven planets the size of Mars. What's more, the earth is made of much denser material and therefore heavier for its size.

Size, Weight Fix Gravity

If placed on the earth's surface, the weight of Mars, because of both its smaller size and lesser density, would be equal to only 11 per cent of the weight of the earth. On the scales, it would take slightly more than nine Mars-sized planets to equal the earth.

The surface gravity of a planet depends upon its size and weight. Since Mars is both smaller and made of lighter materials than the earth, we would expect it to have less surface gravity. And this is so. Old Andy, who weighs 100 pounds on this beautiful planet, would weigh only 38 pounds on the planet Mars.

The visiting astronauts will have quite a time adjusting to the light Martian gravity. The energy used to take a three-foot stride on earth will be enough to take a 70-foot stride on the Red Planet. If you can jump three feet into the air on earth, on Mars you could jump eight feet above the ground. Earth-trained muscles will have to get used to this easy way of doing things.

This light gravity may be a nuisance to earth-trained bodies, but it will be a great help to earthman's dreams. For countless ages, man has dreamed of visiting other worlds across the vast oceans of space. So far, the mighty gravity of the earth has stopped his escape. It will be far easier to escape from the

Salloway Heads Bowlers

Victoria Commercial Tenpin Bowling League teams will usher in the 1960-61 season at the new Aurora Lanes on Wednesday night, Sept. 21.

At the annual meeting Wednesday night the league accepted the entry of 16 teams and drafted its 30-week schedule.

Pete Salloway was re-elected president with Len Parsons vice-president and Wilbur Webb again in the post of secretary-treasurer.

Territorial Fight Looming in Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—Dan Topping of the New York Yankees has been rallying support from fellow American League club owners in his fight to expand the loop into Los Angeles, it was learned Monday.

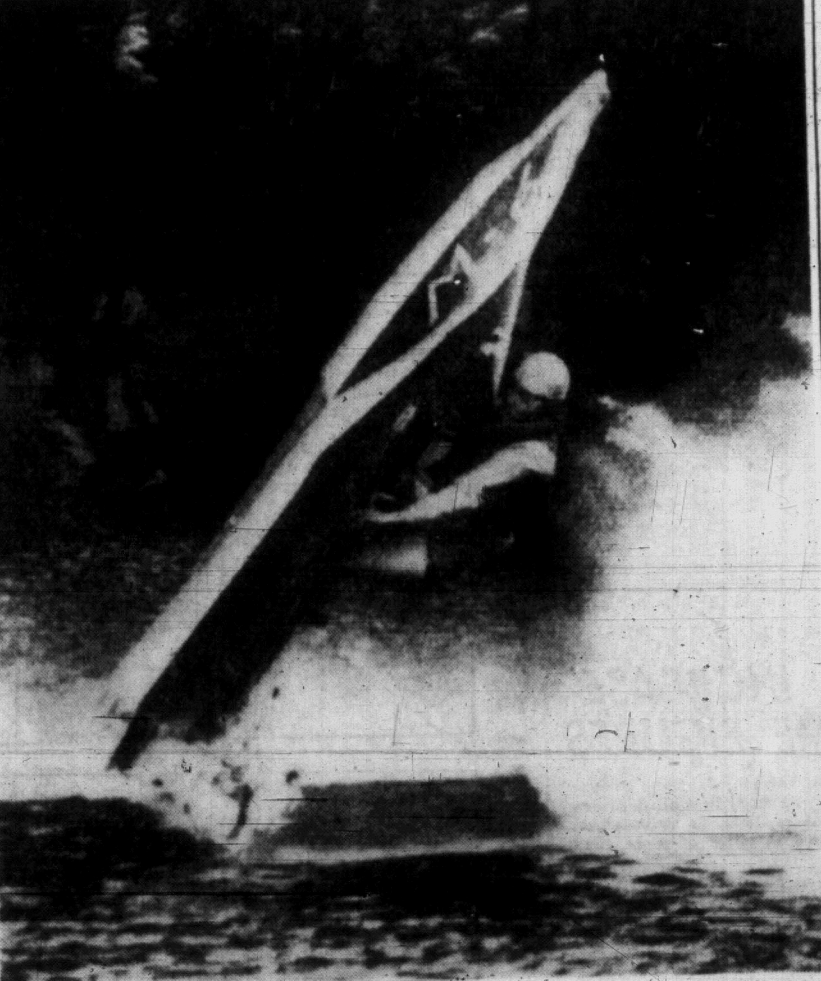

At least two club owners, as well as baseball commissioner Ford Frick, share Topping's sentiments that Los Angeles, now officially regarded as closed territory, should be opened to the American League.

TIT FOR TAT

Topping said recently that despite a special major league committee's recommendation to absorb the Continental League, four teams at a time, he would oppose New York's return to the National League if Los Angeles is not opened to the American.

WESTMINSTER WINS 16-11 Les Too Hot For Nanaimo

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster kept alive their Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff hopes by defeating Nanaimo 16-11 here Monday night.

Nanaimo now leads the best-of-five semi-final series 2-1 with the fourth game at Nanaimo Wednesday night.

Goal-keeping was the major difference between the teams, particularly in the later stages.

Fred Pulla was able to stop only 18 of 34 New Westminster shots while Les Norman stopped 29 at the other end.

Most of our friends and relatives are tuning in on Ottawa, not for a report on the nation as much as for the progress of Victoria's two representatives in the Canadian Amateur championships.

While the same friends and relatives are waiting to hear if Laurie Kerr and Bill Wakeham qualify, there's other good reading. Like, for instance, the announcement that Vancouver's Stan Leonard and Gary Player of South Africa are due to stop over in Victoria for an exhibition.

The two pros will play in an exhibition at Victoria Golf Club on Sept. 3. It's part of a seven-city tour that will also take them to Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

This, of course, is the first Canadian appearance for Player, the British Open champion.

The Prairie tour is sponsored by a brewery with any profits to go to crippled children's charities. Four private individuals, presumably from Vancouver, are backing the two B.C. matches.

The B.C. Liquor Control Commission has turned down the brewery's request to sponsor the B.C. matches. The board's stand apparently is a reversal of former policy, since the commission approved a brewery-backed tour two years ago by Leonard and Toronto's Al Balding.

But that's neither here nor there. Personally, I like to hit golf balls without suds dripping all over them.

Regardless of who sponsors the match at the Oak Bay links, that match will be worth a look. There is no doubt in the minds of many that Player is one of the outstanding young professionals in the world today.

SHORT CHIPS—Wakeham, who carded a two-over-par 75 Monday in the first half of the Canadian Amateur qualifying round, needs only to match that today to be all but assured of a match-play berth. If he qualifies, it could be a great story with a lot of credit going to the friends, Yates Street businessmen, and relatives who sponsored Bill's trip to Ottawa. And don't count out Laurie Kerr just because he took a fat 82 Monday. The Colwood smoothie has a habit of bouncing back from his occasional bad rounds.

Roy Chappell, Laurie Carroll's helper at Oak Bay, picked up fourth-place money in the annual B.C. assistants' tournament at Vancouver at the weekend. Roy came in with rounds of 74 and 78. Gorge Vale's Mel Carlow, the district's only other entrant in the event, picked up after the first round. And Frank Kilshaw left the auctioneering business long enough to capture the Lewis-Feesey Trophy at Uplands. Kilshaw defeated Bert Collison one up in the final of the club's handicap championship. Other flight winners were R. Rose, R. Caddell, M. Rael, B. Humber, Fred Partington, K. Mackay, C. Weatherhead and J. W. Wilson. Dave Jones and W. Champion still have to play off for the third flight prize.

Colwood members journey to Seattle this weekend for their annual inter-club battle with Rainier.

Springboks Increase Lead

CANTERBURY (Reuters)—The touring South African cricket squad Monday consolidated its advantage against Kent after dismissing the county for 192 runs.

The tourists increased their lead on the second day's play to 186 by scoring 107 for the loss of two wickets by the close after declaring their first innings at the weekend total of 271 for nine wickets.

Other close-of-play scores:

At Southend—Essex 289 for 9 declared; Lancashire 108 and 138 for 6.
At Lords—London-Surrey 281 and 9 for 10 wicket; Middlesex 282 for 7 declared.
At Kidderminster—Worcestershire 231 for 9 declared; and 21 for 10 wicket; Somerset 243.
At Leeds—Yorkshire 281; Leicestershire 119 and 108 for 3.
At Nottingham—Nottinghamshire 281 and 24 for 2; Derbyshire 268 for 9 declared.
At Birmingham—Glamorgan 211 for 9 declared; and 76 for 2; Warwickshire 266 for 7 declared.
At Cheltenham—Hampshire 319 for 5 declared; Gloucestershire 263.
At Hove—Sussex 236 for 5 declared; Northamptonshire 170 and 56 for 10 wicket.

First Title for Alberta As B.C. Team Off Form

OTTAWA (CP)—The Willingdon Cup, emblematic of Canada's interprovincial team golf championship, belongs to Alberta today for the first time in its 27-year history—thanks in part, to a big blowup by British Columbia's team.

The four-man Alberta team, whose best previous performance was a second-place in 1955, piled up an aggregate score of 295 to the 310 collected by B.C. in a playoff.

Bob Wyllie, 30-year-old provincial champion from Calgary, sparked the Alberta win in the 18-hole playoff Monday with a two-under-par 71 over the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club course.

The playoff was called when the two teams ended up with identical 606 totals after the regular 36 holes Saturday. The teams' aggregate scores in the opening round of the 36-hole qualifying round of the Canadian Amateur championship were counted to break the tie.

Ron Willey of Vancouver, semifinalist in the Canadian amateur last year, tallied 39-36-75, for the top B.C. performance.

Joe Jeroski, Vancouver, who spoiled his province's chances of winning the crown Saturday with a 10 on the par-five 12th hole, had the jitters on the front nine Monday, making the turn at 40—three over par. He improved on the way in with an even-par 36 for a 76 total.

Johnny Johnston of Vancouver, Canadian Amateur champ, turned in a disappointing 38-39-77 for the B.C. team.

Laurie Kerr, Victoria, winner of the B.C. Amateur title this year, was off with a 39-43-82.

American Ace Leads Qualifiers

Bill Hyndman, a member of the United States Americas Cup team which edged Canada and Mexico in the international team matches last week, fired a three-under-par 70 Monday to lead the field at the halfway mark in the qualifying round.

The runner-up for the 1958 British amateur crown bagged six birdies and went one-over-par on three holes as he counted 35 on both nines for a 70 that withstood the challenge of all others in the huge field of 154.

Wyllie, Alberta amateur champion, was right behind with his two-under 35-36-71.

Only three other players besides Hyndman and Wyllie could crack par in a round highlighted also by a hole-in-one fired by Peter Hope of Dartmouth, N.S. Nova Scotia amateur champion and Willingdon Cup player.

Victoria's Bill Wakeham was one of 13 players who carded two-over-par 75s. The 19-year-old former Canadian junior champion from Gorge Vale was out in 39 and home in 36.

The field, 79 of whom shot 79 or better, will be cut to the low 64 scorers after today's qualifying round. The survivors will advance into match play competition beginning Wednesday with two 18-hole rounds Wednesday and Thursday and the 36-hole semi-finals and final Friday and Saturday.

Teachers Call for Co-Ordination

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Teachers Federation Monday adopted resolutions calling for co-ordination of provincial school curricula and requesting a "major role" in setting entrance requirements for teacher-training institutions.

The resolution, which was given majority approval although delegates differed on the exact wording, it should have, said school curricula in the provinces should be set "so as not to impede the progress of pupils transferred from one province to another."

In previous years, the federation has asked merely that certain "core" curricula be co-ordinated. The CTF's long-standing policy of provincial autonomy in education with federal financial assistance was reiterated.

HORSE STUNG TO DEATH BY THOUSANDS OF BEES

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — The death of a $3,500 horse was blamed today on thousands of bee stings.

Reese Morgan said he was out with members of a sheriff's posse Sunday when the bees swarmed out of an old oak tree where the officers had tied their horses during a rest.

Morgan said the other two horses tied to the tree managed to tear loose and gallop away, but his 7-year-old gelding was unable to break away.

OIL TANKER

Two Killed as Ship Burns

PORTLAND (AP) — An explosion and fire raged through the pump room of the oil tanker Texaco Delaware here Monday night, killing two men.

Crew members prevented the blaze from spreading to the ship's cargo of 360,000 gallons of high-test gasoline.

Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The fire mushroomed into the bilges, but the crew quelled it quickly and prevented it from spreading.

"I was standing at the edge of the dock when the hole hatch of the pump house blew off," said watchman John Barbur.

"Flames shot into the air six or seven feet. I was thrown back against the guard house, but wasn't hurt."

The ship had arrived here Monday afternoon from Anacortes, Wash., and was pumping its gasoline into storage tanks on the shore at the time of the blast. Streets in the area were closed by authorities, who had feared there might be a major explosion.

Pugnacious in appearance and pug by name, these pups are actually most good natured, will grow to be gentle, loving companions. Owned by Mrs. Tom Moss, 3966 Cedar Hill Cross Road, they are 2½ months old, were imported from U.S.A. in belief popularity of breed, which has fallen in past 20 years, will be revived. Pugs are miniature bulldogs, largest of the toy group of dogs.

FATHER FOLLOWS SON TO BROKEN BONE WARD

It was a bad weekend for the Sproules of 3130 Frechette, with two members of the family sent to hospital with broken or suspected broken bones from separate accidents.

Saanich fireman Robert Sproule, thrown off a fire truck rushing to a grass fire on Granville Sunday, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for a broken ankle.

Remaining members of his crew fought a blazing half-acre of grass and brush.

On Friday, his son, Patrick, 12, was taken to the same hospital with a neck cut and possible broken collarbone suffered when his bicycle crashed into a parked car.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The regular meeting of the Ontario Social Group of Victoria will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at 1400 Broad Street. Films will be shown by B.C. Electric.

The Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island will meet at Wilkema Lodge, Cowichan Bay, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Bus leaves B.C. Electric office, Pandora and Blanshard at 7:15 p.m.

Those intending to travel and not yet booked should contact the secretary at EV 4-2600.

Special meeting of Esquimalt Council "to get the ball rolling" on construction of a municipal sports centre approved by ratepayers in a $400,000 bylaw vote last Saturday, will be held Wednesday.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said the meeting will be in camera, but residents will be informed of action taken.

A deep-freeze burglar made an $80 in cool cash when he took four $20 bills from a Victoria man's refrigerator some time over the weekend.

Benny Korte, 3099 Albany, complained to police the money and a bank book had been taken from the freezing compartment of his refrigerator since Friday night.

City council today will decide whether to take the advice of finance committee and donate $200 to a fund to send Canadian athletes, including five from Victoria, to the Olympic Games in Rome.

Frank Lynn Radway, 1321 Rockland, was fined $250 and his licence was suspended in city police court today for impaired driving.

William Dougal, 4290 Glenford, was treated for minor cuts after the car in which he rode crashed into a power pole on Head near Esquimalt late Monday.

Police said the driver was Donald Hardy, 746 Kings.

The 166 Victoria students who have been touring Europe are due back in Victoria this Saturday.

They saved their money and paid their own way across under reduced student rates.

The group arrived in Montreal by air today and are visiting Ottawa before catching CNR train on last lap of journey home.

B.C. Electric and its gas workers have accepted a unanimous conciliation board recommendation of an 8 per cent wage increase spread over two years.

Some 500 gas workers, members of the IBEW (about 40 in this area), are affected in Vancouver, Victoria and the Fraser Valley.

Increases are 3 per cent, retroactive to May 1, 1960; 3 per cent, effective January 1, 1961; and 2 per cent effective September 1, 1961.

The respective increases will step the laborers' rate to $1.90, $1.96 and $2.

City council works committee will investigate beautifying the downtown area by installing "tubs" containing shrubs in front of business premises.

Committee today more or less endorsed the proposition, which came from several businessmen.

It is now illegal for a business establishment to undertake such a venture on its own.

More discussion will be needed before action is taken.

Terry Goodman, 10 of 4903 West Saanich, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a severe gash in the arm after he fell against a window at Beaver Lake Monday afternoon.

Police said the boy was discharged from hospital after being stitched.

He fell at the lakeshore concession building.

City public works committee will hold a special meeting shortly with B.C. Electric officials on a suggestion that all buses be taken off Douglas Street to release parking facilities.

The suggestion was made by Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean, who said buses could easily be re-routed along adjacent streets.

"There'd be an awful holler from the public," said committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. Elderly persons, he said, object to having to walk farther than they have to.

'Metermen' May Get New Power

Commissionaires, now limited to patrolling parking meters only, may have their authority broadened to patrol for all parking offences.

City public works committee today decided to meet with the police commission on the suggestion.

The committee also will suggest to the commission that hours of commissionaires be changed from the present 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., to 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. to enable more effective handling of rush hour traffic and parking.

Commissionaires also may be given chalk sticks to mark cars parked in metered spaces, and a system of progressive fines for continuing infractions.

The committee was not so much opposed to "repeat metering" by car drivers—that is, replenishing the meter from time to time, over the allowable parking time, as to businessmen who parked all day in one spot by feeding the meters.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said there were many "organized" groups in city offices who behaved this way.

It was brought to committee attention that recently 11 businessmen had been noted parking all day on View Street.

Among the worst offenders were real estate men, who wanted cars handy to take out clients.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman, said a printed appeal to these persons might help. They would be asked to find off-street parking.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

TIMETABLE LISTED FOR ECHO I

If skies are clear, Echo I, the United States balloon satellite, will be visible over Victoria tonight.

Dr. J. O. Wright of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said today watchers should look for a moving star on the following schedule:

10:55 p.m. PDT—Rising in the southeast sky to an altitude of about 45 degrees and setting in the east.

12:45 a.m.—Rising in the west and passing nearly overhead and setting in the southeast.

2:48 a.m.—Rising in the southwest and setting in the south.

Dr. Wright said the satellite's carrier should be seen about 20 minutes earlier than Echo I. But it would not be as bright as the balloon, he said.

RCN to Host Eight Ships From U.S.

The RCN Pacific Command at Esquimalt will be host to a total of eight United States ships this month.

On Thursday, the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Gresham will arrive for a visit lasting until Sunday. HMCS Fraser will be host ship.

On Friday, five ships of the U.S. Minesweeping Division 73 will berth here briefly on the way to the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver.

They are U.S. Ships Acme, Conquest, Estemeg, Pledge, and Gallant. Host ship will be the four units of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

Mindiv 73 will return Aug. 30 for a visit lasting until Sept. 2.

Two destroyers, USS Laws and USS Watts, are scheduled to arrive Aug. 26 for a three-day stop in the course of a reserve training cruise. Host ships will be HMCS New Glasgow and HMCS Antigonish.

CLINICS AT TWO HOSPITALS WEDNESDAY

'Second Front' in Polio War

Wednesday will be "Blitz Day" against polio in both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals.

Clinics will be operating from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Nurses' Residences.

The campaign, instituted by the Victoria Medical Society and the Public Health Department, is aimed at counter-balancing the "apathy" to anti-polio vaccination apparent in Victoria despite a mounting polio disease rate.

Two categories are eligible for the free shots: Those who have not yet received their first inoculation, and persons who more than two years ago started the series of three inoculations but have not completed them.

Age is no barrier. Last year's oldest polio victim was 72.

When a similar clinic was held here three years ago, more than 15,000 persons took advantage of it.

Twenty doctors will be on hand at the hospitals, working on a shift basis.

Doctors emphasize the shots have no after-effects. All that is necessary is a rolled-up sleeve. It takes only a few seconds.

'Pretty Boy,' 14, Admits Masquerade

Theft of Suitcase Led to Unveiling

A 14-year-old Edmonton boy who successfully masqueraded as an attractive, well-proportioned woman of 22—and used the effect to cash a number of bogus cheques—is in Coldharbour Detention Home here after city detectives cracked his disguise Monday night.

Victoria juvenile officers said today the boy dressed as a woman after stealing a suitcase full of female apparel at Kamloops about the end of July.

He disappeared from detention in Edmonton July 20.

His full exploits were not detailed, but police said the boy spent some time in Vancouver, cashing a number of cheques as he confronted hotel clerks and others with his pretty, made-up face and voluptuous figure.

Deciding to come further west, the boy, using the name Pat, took the Monday afternoon ferry from Vancouver, and—probably needing a change—picked up a pair of suitcases belonging to another woman tourist.

This proved to be the beginning of the end for "Pat." "She came ashore, cashed a $50 cheque at a hotel, then went to have a pair of shoes fitted.

The male clerk who served his dainty customer never suspected a thing. She went away with her shoes to register at a different hotel from which she had obtained the money.

By coincidence, the real owner of the suitcases, was registering at the same hotel, saw her cases being handled by a strange woman and decided to call police.

Detectives, suspecting nothing out of the ordinary, paid a visit to the "woman's" hotel room to ask a few pertinent questions, like "Whose bags are these?"

Possibly unnerved by the proximity of police, Pat broke down and confessed to his identity.

Power Failure

A power pole on Pembroke Street short-circuited early today and caused an electricity failure in the Wharf, Store, Government and Pembroke Streets area.

"Everything's very quiet today," said a forest department official.

"Nothing to report" was the report on new fires.

Closures were lifted on southern Vancouver Island and four other zones within the Vancouver fire district. Also freed was the Bella Coola area in Prince Rupert district, subject to a recreational closure.

Camp fire permits had been banned since July 20. The closures were imposed last Tuesday.

Wet Weather Eases Curbs On Burning

Rain which started about 7 p.m. Monday has resulted in easing of all municipal garbage and outside burning restrictions.

Up to noon today, slightly more than one-fifth of an inch of rain had fallen.

City residents can burn material outside without incinerators' although burning permits are required.

Outside burning in Saanich became effective today but permits must be picked up at fire stations.

BY PHONE

Outside burning permits can be obtained by telephone in Oak Bay, but they are issued on a day-to-day basis.

Langford today instituted the same procedure, while in Esquimalt there had not been any restriction on outside burning. Permits are needed, but they can be obtained by phone.

Weather outlook is for continued spotty rain, with sunny periods breaking through Wednesday afternoon.

All's Quiet On Fire Lines After Rainfall

B.C.'s blanket of rain today spread relief to all areas scorched by forest fires.

A general closure on most of the Vancouver fire district was lifted at midnight, and the island's woods now are open to the public again.

At the same time, the forest service dropped its ban on camp fire permits.

"Nothing to report" was the report on new fires.

'You Have Debt Of $555 Million'

A sign was painted on the ceiling of the Woodsworth CCF Hall, Courtney Street, Monday night. In large black letters it read:

"You Have a $555,000,000 provincial debt Hanging Over Your Head."

"Do you really believe our province is debt-free?" asked Victoria CCF candidate Mrs. Rhoda Erickson of an audience of close to 100 attending a CCF election rally.

A number of supporters answered "No," and there was some shaking of heads as Mrs. Erickson went on to declare that an economic review of B.C. government finances, issued by the minister of finance and printed by the Queen's Printer, showed that the province owed $555,000,000 in contingent liabilities.

IT'S DEBT

Mrs. Erickson insisted that this money was "debt" although, as she said, the government described it as "self-liquidating."

"I hope you will tell others and help to stop people being fooled by this sort of thing," she said.

Holding up a copy of the Social Credit booklet "Eight Great Years," Mrs. Erickson said it was designed to give the impression the government was responsible for all the advances made in social legislation.

"This is political plagiarism," she declared. "The CCF is the only party that has given any backing to organized labor and has striven consistently to raise the living standards of the working people."

'VOTE CATCHING'

Mrs. Erickson accused the government of "vote-catching" when it spoke of protecting individual freedom. She said Bill 43 (curbing the power of labor leaders to call strikes) was "the most infamous legislation ever brought down as labor law in Canada."

"It is robbing the trade unions of free speech," she declared.

Neil Hindle, also running for election as a CCF candidate, said the Wenner-Gren plan to develop northern Brit-

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would the wife or widow of a Canadian old age pensioner living in England and having the necessary 25 years' residence in Canada be entitled on reaching age 70 to receive her monthly old age pension without returning to Canada?—D.M.M.

A. In the ordinary case, a person such as described would have to return to Canada and reside here a year before she could become eligible for pension payment. If, however, there had been no actual change of residence and such a person were temporarily absent from Canada on reaching age 70, she could qualify for payment without returning to Canada.

Q. Could you find out the origin of the word "grit" in relation to its Liberal party application?—R.C.

A. Clear Grits were the name given to the Reform Party in Canada in 1849 who were critical of the government. Origin of the term is attributed to David Christie, who wanted in the party "all sand and no dirt, clear grit all the way through." The Reform party provided the nucleus of what became the Liberal party.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. VOTES, NOTES, QUOTES

'Pie-d Piper Perrault Calling'

The way to a housewife's heart is through her stomach.

This, at least, is the theory of Liberal leader Ray Perrault, who can't spend quite as much time as he'd like in his chosen riding of North Vancouver.

So he is distributing pictures of himself, each of which carries a recipe for blueberry pie on the reverse side.

The recipe is insurance to make sure the picture is kept around the house. "Housewives never throw away a recipe," reasons Mr. Perrault.

Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas is reaching right down into the fine print for an election issue.

Says he believes the party will benefit from dissatisfaction with the present telephone book, with its small type and somewhat mystifying abbreviations.

"We advocate public ownership of the B.C. Telephone Company," says Mr. Thomas, "and we'd make sure of a more satisfactory telephone book."

The CCF actually up and did it—nominated a candidate to run against 86-year-old Tom Uphill, the independent labor member for Fernie for 40 years, who has yet to say whether he will or won't run.

Since the CCF was formed, it has always left the Fernie field clear for ardent laborite Uphill.

But, because "old Tom" took so long to make up his mind, the Fernie CCFers have nominated Lloyd Phillips to contest the seat.

Speaking of old-timers in politics, who should be coming here late in August or early in September but the perennial Communist boss in Canada, Tim Buck, who has been failing to get Red candidates elected anywhere in Canada for more than most people can remember. His party has lost 19 deposits coming up this provincial election.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan will never be able to stand up in a meeting and say "unaccustomed as I am to public speaking..." Loyally toiling for fellow candidates, he's the busiest Socred to date, with three appearances this week plus a public rally in the Athletic Association Hall, Shawnigan, next Monday.

At least two candidates will be keeping their fingers crossed on election day, waiting to see if they are going to get a nice birthday present.

Arthur Turner, CCF, Vancouver Centre, and J. Donald Smith, Socred, Victoria, were both born on Sept. 12.

Pat Thomas will discuss the CCF medical health plan at a meeting in Marigold Hall, 8 tonight...

the three Social Credit candidates in Victoria will hold a meeting in Victoria West School, 8 p.m., Thursday.

AT LADY LAURIER CLUB

Alan Macfarlane Says Taxes Would Be Halved

Municipal taxes would be cut in half by the Liberals' school finance policy, Oak Bay candidate Alan Macfarlane said on Monday.

Mr. Macfarlane told the Lady Laurier Club in a noon address:

"Municipal taxes will in many cases be half what they are today when the burden of school taxes is lifted.

"In some cases the school taxes are as much as 67 per cent of a homeowner's total tax bill."

The Liberal plan would retain the tax on business and industry, but lift it off the homeowner.

"We would be left with about $45,000,000 to raise," said Mr. Macfarlane.

"If the $50 homeowners' grant were removed, we would need only about $13,000,000."

One good source for this, he said, would be the 5 per cent sales tax, which brought in $87,000,000 last year.

Removal of the $50 grant would depend on the amount of such revenue available.

Of Personal Interest

In Princeton

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Norman of Princeton, B.C., wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Beverly June, to Mr. Hugh Godwin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Godwin of Sidney, B.C. The wedding will take place in St. Paul's United Church, Princeton, on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 4 p.m. Rev. G. Dunsmore will officiate.

Mr. and Mrs. Steadman To Make Home In Michigan

In St. John's Anglican Church in early August, Canon George Biddle officiated at the wedding of Sylvia Anne Thompson, of Duncan, B.C., and William Arthur Steadman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Steadman of Warren, Mich.

The bride wore a full-length white silk organza gown with tulle and a rhinestone crown. Her bouquet was red roses, white carnations and stephanotis.

Bridesmatron Mrs. Vivian Gibson wore a dress of pink silk organza with pink veiled hat. As bridesmaid, Miss Pat Knapp, Santa Barbara, Calif., was in blue silk organza, with blue veiled hat. Both carried pink and white carnations. Flower girl, Coleen Knapp, wore a dainty yellow nylon dress and yellow hat, and carried a basket of yellow and white carnations.

Donald Gibson was best man and Dave McCormack was usher. Reception was held in Olde England Inn where Arthur Knapp, who came from Santa Barbara for the wedding, proposed the toast.

After spending a week in Victoria the couple left by car on a honeymoon trip to Warren, Mich., where they will make their future home. The bride travelled in a turquoise cashmere suit, with white feather hat and white accessories.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Healthy Older Folks Share Zest for Life

The importance of exercise for health and longevity and the danger of the sedentary life is being emphasized today by the medical profession. The great majority of healthy, happy older people have been physically active in what we think of as old age and even later.

Only a portion of them had made any special effort to exercise outside of their work but most of the others got plenty of exercise in their occupations. Many of the women have worked outside of their homes while others stayed at home but they did not have the mechanical appliances we have today, and they had larger families.

Most healthy, older folks are happy people. They have had a great zest for life, they have been in love with daily living. They have been easy-going, calm individuals who found life good in spite of its problems, and were satisfied with their station in life. They have had a fundamental sense of right and wrong and have not been harassed by feelings of guilt and confusion—and they were definitely not worriers! What could be more emphatic backing for today's theories concerning psychosomatic impact?

Check on some of the diets the 75 year and older people have lived on and no doubt they would confound some modern ideas of nutrition. However, one fact would be clear. Most of them always liked "plain food," lightly seasoned.

As a lifetime habit they have no doubt not taken second helpings. They have not stuffed themselves. They have not been accustomed to the between-meal snack and are about as far from being gourmet as I am from being an airplane pilot—and that's as far as you can go!

English, you'll find yourself able to get ahead faster in your job and social life. You'll gain new poise and confidence plus the respect of those around you."

For those interested, Bolander has made available a free 32-page booklet that tells how you can gain the ability to speak and write like a college graduate, in your own home. Just put your name and address on a card or letter and send to Don Bolander, Dept. VC-2, 30 East Adams, Chicago 1, Illinois. The booklet will be mailed promptly with no obligation. "Once you gain a mastery of litigation, of course."

Liddell-Wehrli Wedding Vows Said in St. Aidan's Church

Rev. I. Avery heard the wedding vows of Ann Lily Wehrli and Thomas Martin Liddell, in St. Aidan's United Church last Saturday evening. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wehrli of Brisco, B.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Liddell of Victoria.

White and orange yellow gladioli were at the altar for the occasion and pew markers were white and yellow Shasta daisies. Miss Darlene Bagshaw sang "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

Floor-length bridal gown was of Chantilly lace over tulle, styled with scalloped neckline, long sleeves, fitted bodice and princess waistline. A small head and pearl scalloped crown held the chapel veil.

Flowers were Talisman roses and white heather. Bride was given in marriage by her father.

Senior attendants were Miss Ursula Wehrli, Vancouver; Miss Caron Graves, Mrs. Catherine Clausen, Radium Hot Springs, and the flower girl, Miss Sandra Newell. Bridesmatron and bridesmaids wore pale green silk organza over taffeta with matching hats styled with shoulder-length streamers at the back. They carried white and yellow Shasta daisies. Flower girl wore the same style dress tied with white velvet ribbon at the waist. She had a white velvet bow at her neck and she carried a basket of the daisies.

Bruce Liddell was best man and ushers were Robert Shipley and Donald Fouracre.

Reception was held in the Golden Slipper Supper Club where Rev. B. Hartley, Duncan, B.C., proposed the toast and a three-tier wedding cake was cut.

The bride left for a honeymoon at Santa Monica, Calif., wearing a soft rose-toned cashmere suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Liddell will live at 1975 Lee Avenue.

Reception was held at 900 Terrace Avenue where a three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, was cut. Table was decorated with white candles, sweet peas, stocks and gypsophila. Bride's godfather, Gilbert Brown, proposed the toast.

A motor trip to San Francisco is planned for the honeymoon. The bride travelled in a Blin and Blin wheat-toned dress, mink stole, moss-green hat and accessories. Her corsage was cymbidium orchids.

MANAGES SEVERAL JOBS FROM HER WHEELCHAIR

CALGARY (CP) — Mrs. D. L. McDougall of Calgary has been in a wheelchair for 22 years but that hasn't stopped her from doing two or three jobs.

In addition to being a housewife, she is the advertising manager of a weekly publication and takes an active part in helping incurables.

"It is just as possible to accomplish things from a wheelchair," Mrs. McDougall said in an interview, "although it may take a helpless person four or five years to realize there is much that can be done without the use of the legs."

DEAR ABBY

You Made Her What She Is, Mom!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Tell me if this is just a stage my daughter is going through or what? She just graduated from high school and plans to go to college in September.

She leaves her clothes where ever she takes them off and doesn't make her bed unless I yell about it. Asking her in a normal tone gets me nowhere. I must raise my voice and shout three or four times. She calls this nagging. She never volunteers to help with a thing.

When she was younger I didn't mind picking up after her, but at her age am I wrong to ask her to pick up after herself?

NAGGING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Mothers who "do not mind" picking up after their children when they are young, should not complain if they have to pick up after them when they are older.

Close the door to your daughter's room and let her waste around in the mess until she finds it so hopelessly inconvenient she will tidy it up herself. It won't improve the looks of her room, but it will do wonders for your blood pressure.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how to start this letter but I know if I don't look for help with my problem, my marriage will be ruined pretty soon. I have been married for four years and I have a two-year-old child. I feel so ashamed and guilty about married love that I don't know what to do. There are many questions I would like to know the answers to, but I am ashamed to ask my doctor and I can't talk to my mother or friends about anything so intimate. Please, Abby, can you recommend a good frank book about what is right and what is wrong in married love? I only went through Eighth grade.

TEARS

DEAR TEARS: Send me your name and address and I will recommend three or four excellent books on this subject. I admire your uncommonly intelligent approach to a very common problem.

DEAR ABBY: That dog fight you had in your column recently brings to mind a wonderful quote by Mark Twain: "If you pick up a hungry dog and feed him, he will not bite

you. That is the principal difference between man and dog."

Respectfully submitted by — A DOG LOVER.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Western RED CEDAR Bevel
SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER
Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for gluing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY
Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS
Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES
Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly used soft woods — another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

THREE DAYTIME PROGRAMS
The NBC-TV network schedule in the autumn—Here's Hollywood, a new interview series with TV and movie stars taped at various Hollywood locations; the Jan Murray Show, a new colorcast word-game show designed to appeal to the bargain-hunting instincts of women; and the popular Make Room for Daddy, starring Danny Thomas...
Jack Paar leaves his NBC-TV show Monday, Aug. 29, for a three-week vacation in Spain and North Africa. When he returns to the air Monday, Sept. 19, his regular "The Jack Paar Show" will be telecast in color, Monday through Thursday. On Friday his show will be shown on black and white only. These will be re-runs.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

620 Rally Delay On Post Office

ALBERNI—City council here Monday received a petition containing 620 names protesting to Postmaster-General William Hamilton the delay in plans to enlarge the post office.

The protest came from rural postal route residents.

The postmaster-general was criticized for recognizing the "minority group" Alberni Voters' Association by withholding action.

The association had urged that a referendum be held before the building was enlarged.

VALLEY RIDERS WIN

PORT ALBERNI—The Valley Riders on Sunday won the first inter-club meet with the Cedar Valley Riding Club.

Individual aggregate and the Andrew Bigg Cup was won by Frances, Rorvik, on Indian Summer. Second place was taken by Carol Evans, also of Alberni, on Taffy.

Venice Davis and Bill Holmes, both of the Cedar club, tied for third place.

THROUGH WINDSHIELD

DUNCAN—Robert Griffiths of Victoria is in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital here after suffering a skull fracture in a car accident Sunday that sent five persons to hospital.

The car he was driving left the Trans-Canada Highway at Hutchison Road and wound up in the ditch causing an estimated $500 damage.

Also in the car were Darryl D. Cook, Victoria, who sustained a broken leg; Sarbar Joe Sangah, Victoria, lacerations, and John Slunka, Victoria, minor cuts.

Griffiths and Cook were pitched through the windshield.

3,345 STUDENTS

DUNCAN—School officials here predict there will be 3,345 students in elementary and secondary schools here when classes start Sept. 6.

A. D. Jones, school inspector, said there will be no shifting of classes "unless there is a terrific overload, which sometimes happens. I don't think it will."

The anticipated increase of students is 225 more than last year.

DROVE WHILE SUSPENDED

DUNCAN—James Butterworth of Koksilah was fined $50 and paid $6.50 court costs in Duncan police court Monday for driving a car while his driver's licence was suspended.

Butterworth was seen driving near the Silver Bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway at 12:10 a.m. by Cons. Jack Wiegierinck but was not checked until two minutes had elapsed and he was walking along the road.

"When I turned around I observed the accused walking about 20 feet ahead of this parked car," Cons. Wiegierinck told the court.

Butterworth first told the policeman he didn't know whose car it was and denied he had been the driver. After the constable checked inside the car and found a letter addressed to Jane Butterworth the accused said: "Oh, I guess that's my wife's car."

MITCHELLS WIN

Ralph and Gordon Mitchell had the highest aggregate score, 271 point, with a field of Netted Gems during the annual field day of South Vancouver island potato growers held in Saanich over the weekend.

They also had the best score for crop management.

John Pendray had the second highest aggregate, 269 points, also with Netted Gems. He had the best field free from insect and disease damage.

"HUGE SUCCESS"

Despite rain, the first international picnic for Moose lodges and chapters from Port Angeles, Duncan, Nanaimo and Victoria was reported a huge success at Mt. Douglas Park Sunday.

About 400 attended the event, organized by Victoria Chapter 25 Women and Lodge 1390 of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Box lunches and suppers were served at noon and 4 p.m. and souvenir sunbonnets distributed. Ice cream, soft drinks and wieners were provided for the youngsters.

When rain started in the afternoon, the picnic moved to the lodge hall, 541 Fort Street.

HITS CAR, TREE, FENCE, HOUSE

Sailor Killed in Crash

Victim's Legs Severed
As Impact Crushes Auto

By AB KENT

A 38-year-old naval petty officer died almost instantly when his car was wrecked in crashes with another car, a tree, fences and a house on Hillside Avenue, at 11.35 p.m. Monday.

He lost both legs in the spectacular accident. Lawrence Albert Orton, of HMCS Margaree, was dead on arrival at Royal Jubilee Hospital, the city's first traffic fatality of 1960.

Two others, AB Clarke E. Maguire, 21, of HMCS Margaree, a passenger with Orton, and Atwell C. D. King, 51, of 2091 Townley, driver of the other car, were treated for minor injuries.

The crash covered most of a city block between Doncaster Drive and Belmont Avenue and both sides of Hillside, an estimated 400 feet.

The victim's car was folded in the middle where it struck a large oak broadside at the driver's door on the north boulevard of Hillside.

Crash 'Sounded Like Gunfire'

"It sounded like gunfire," off-duty city policeman Harry Hoshal said after he was disturbed at his home at 1653 Edgeware, two blocks away.

"I went over to see what had happened. I couldn't rest until I found out."

Police said it appeared that PO Orton, married and the father of three children, drove west on Hillside when his car veered to the wrong side of the street just west of Doncaster and was in collision with the left-front fender of King's car, heading east.

The impact apparently caused the first car to go back, out of control, some 235 feet along the right side of Hillside to where it struck the tree.

It was whipped through an arc on the north side of the tree and again on to the street, crossing completely to the south side where it went through fences at Blatchford's and his neighbor's, the home of Frederick Bosence, 1509 Hillside.

Petty Officer Thrown From Car

Its impetus finally broken, the car came to rest against a corner of Blatchford's house, barely damaging the structure.

Police wrote off the four-door, two-tone late model car. King's car was damaged on the fender and left hood and wheel assembly.

Both cars were impounded pending investigation. PO Orton was thrown out of his car at the oak tree and Maguire was carried on in the auto, suffering face and ankle injuries with which he was admitted to HMCS Naden Hospital.

King was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and treated for shoulder and hand injuries, and then discharged.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart will conduct an inquest at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday at Hayward's funeral home.

PO Orton until recently lived with his family at 914 Parklands, but Mrs. Madeline Mary Orton and children Nicky, 14, Karen, nine, and Andrea, seven, had just moved to Alberni where the family bought a motel business.

The seaman was due for retirement from the RCN in November of this year.

Besides the immediate family, PO Orton is survived by two brothers in Victoria, Bernard Orton and Raymond Thomas Orton; his mother Mrs. Laura Orton, brothers George and Edward and sisters Marjorie Faber and Marion Reimer, all of Regina, and brother Leonard, Saskatoon.

TORONTO (CP)—Dominion Bridge Company plants in Toronto and the Montreal area were crippled today by a strike which threatens to spread throughout the company's 11 union-organized factories in Canada.

SIDNEY RIDER IN CAR CRASH
Sidney Jockey Dennis Anderson suffered minor injuries early today when involved in a fatal Vancouver accident.

He was one of two passengers in a car driven by Carl Frederick Braden, 24, of Portland, who was killed when the vehicle bounced off another car and collided with a third while rounding a curve.

He suffered a broken neck and was dead on arrival at hospital. The third passenger was P. E. Pollard of Portland.

$5 MILLION PROJECT

Oil Pipeline Set For Peace River

The government today approved a start on construction of a 130-mile crude oil pipeline network in the Peace River country which had been forfeited by another company.

Initial cost of the project will be $5 million. Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd., a Canadian company, has been awarded a transport department certificate for an immediate start on construction.

The project was "defaulted" by Peace River Oil Pipeline Ltd. which could not come to terms with the provincial government on its plans for a hookup in Alberta.

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks said the new line will be in operation within 13 months. It will have an initial capacity of 20,000 barrels a day. The main line will be eight inches in diameter and feeder lines and auxiliaries will be "suitable" capacity.

The Milligan Creek-Dolg River oil fields to Fort St. John.

Two branches will run from there to Dawson Creek and Boundary Lake on the Alberta border.

Trans-Prairie was one of four original applicants for the project.

Pipeline Approved
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California today authorized Pacific Gas and Electric Company to build a multi-million dollar pipeline from the Oregon border to deliver Canadian natural gas to Antioch in the San Francisco Bay area.

The trial will start at 10 a.m. Wednesday (midnight, PDT) in the Hall of Columns of the House of the Unions, an attractive green-painted building in the heart of the city. It will be Powers' 31st birthday.

4 MEN LOST

PWA Plane Crashes In Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines announced today that four men are believed to have been killed when a company Beaver float plane crashed at Lorna Lake, 84 miles west of Williams Lake, 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The company said in a statement the plane apparently crashed on take off Monday.

A PWA search plane spotted the wreckage Monday night but could not determine whether the men were still inside. It was in about 10 feet of water.

B.C. PILOT

The company said pilot of the plane was J. B. (Jim) Marshall, 46, of Kamloops, B.C. Names of the three passengers, all thought to be Calgary men, were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

However, it is understood they were employees of Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary.

The company said first news of the accident came early Monday night after PWA sent in an aircraft to check when Marshall's plane was unreported. Marshall, a veteran pilot with eight years with PWA, reported to the company's Kamloops base at 1.10 p.m.

The search plane was hampered by darkness and another plane was sent in this morning.

"It would appear," reported pilot Lou Iverson, "that the aircraft was about to take off when it was struck by a violent gust of wind at the south-east end of the lake and flipped over."

"Because of heavy silt in the lake we were unable to determine whether the men were still inside the aircraft."

SPY PILOT:

'Better Off In Russia Than U.S.'

LONDON (CP)—A left-wing American lawyer bound for the Powers trial in Moscow said today the captured U-2 pilot "is probably a lot better off than he would be if he were a Soviet spy on trial in the U.S.A."

Vincent Hallinan of San Francisco, who was invited to attend the trial as an observer, told reporters at London airport:

"Our government has stupidly admitted he was spying, so what can he do at his trial?"

Hallinan ran for U.S. president in 1956 as head of the Progressive Party. The party now is defunct.

"It is my opinion that he will serve about two years imprisonment," Hallinan said.

In Berlin, Soviet journalists recently returned from Russia, forecast a sentence of death or life imprisonment but said it would probably be commuted later to about 10 years imprisonment.

The journalists said the impression in Moscow is that Powers will get a stiffer sentence than generally forecast in the West. Many Western observers anticipate a 10-year sentence.

The trial will start at 10 a.m. Wednesday (midnight, PDT) in the Hall of Columns of the House of the Unions, an attractive green-painted building in the heart of the city. It will be Powers' 31st birthday.

Raiders Scour Homes, Hotels

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba's Congolese police swept through homes and hotels in Leopoldville today, arresting Europeans, United Nations personnel and a Canadian air control expert.

UN undersecretary Ralph Bunche intervened personally to obtain the release of two UN officers Congo police picked up. The police claimed the officers "were Belgians, camouflaged under UN uniform."

The Congolese surrounded various buildings housing UN staff and detained many UN officials for identity purposes. They surrounded the big royal apartment building where the UN has its headquarters and hauled dozens of officers arriving for work about 8 a.m. into paddy-wagons.

The officials were released when a fast shuttle service between officers and wagons brought out the pink identity cards to the police.

NABBED 4 TIMES

Bill Routliffe of Montreal, an air control expert at Ndolo airport in Leopoldville, was arrested by police four times in four blocks while walking to UN headquarters for an identity card. Each time he was allowed to go free. Another official was detained for an hour and released.

About 200 soldiers of the Congolese army also expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers from Leopoldville airport.

The paratroopers offered no resistance and marched off smartly to a Belgian plane and took off for the Belgian base at Kitona. They were the last Belgian troops in Leopoldville.

Thirteen civilian members of the Belgian military mission were expelled on the same plane. They had been found in the Belgian Embassy as Lumumba's army and police began their crackdown today.

Congolese troops also arrested Gaston Dieu, deputy president of the Belgian airline Sabena.

Roving police questioned scores of persons wearing UN armbands and searched their rooms.

AT LEAST 10 HELD
UN officials said at least 10 UN personnel were being held by the police.

Lumumba made his show of force some 12 hours after UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demands that UN troops enforce the premier's authority throughout the turbulent Congo.

Hammarskjold decided to return to the 11-nation council for new instructions after Lumumba in a series of three bitter letters said he no longer had confidence in the secretary-general. The fiery Congolese leader presented demands for sweeping UN help in putting down dissidents against his rule and creation of an Asian-African commission to take over Hammarskjold's supervision of the UN effort in the strife-torn area.

The police checks followed charges by Lumumba Monday night in a broadcast speech that Belgian "spies" were being covered up through the issuance of UN armbands to them. UN officials denied the charge.

U.S. Military Chiefs Meet

Reds Decide To Sit in On Arms Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union decided today to attend the opening session of the United Nations disarmament commission along with other members of the nine-nation Soviet bloc.

The Soviet bloc countries decided at the last minute against boycotting the meeting after failure of their campaign to persuade Asian-African and other so-called neutral nations to stay away.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov was to take his seat at the conference table this afternoon in the committee room where United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was set to urge the 82-nation commission to call for speedy resumption of deadlocked East-West disarmament negotiations.

OTTAWA—Bill Wakeham of Victoria all but assured himself a berth in the first round of match play in the Canadian Amateur golf championships as he fired his second successive 75 for a total of 150 in the qualifying round here today.

Victoria's Laurie Kerr appeared to have little chance of qualifying after he shot a 76 to go with the 82 he carded Monday.

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND DEAD
SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Police announced tonight the body of Graeme Thorne, eight-year-old kidnapped boy, was found in the suburb of Seaford.

The body was wrapped in blankets and tightly gagged and bound.

Graeme, son of lottery-winner Basil Thorne, disappeared on his way to school July 7.

Ninety minutes after he left a phone caller with a foreign accent demanded $25,000 Australian ($56,000) ransom for his safe return. The parents sought to pay, but never were able to establish when and where the kidnappers wanted them to make contact.

The body was discovered near the spot Graeme's school bag, cap, school books and other items were found a few days after he disappeared.

Valuable Ardmore Property Sold

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A real estate transaction so full of coincidences that it might have come out of a movie writer's imagination has its almost unbelievable climax last week.

Involved were two families, two fathers, two sons, two continents.

The transaction began in Hal Malone, 1920, Major Cuthbert Holmes, promising young realtor, sold 16 acres of waterfront property south of Patricia Bay seaplane base to Col. Richard Glynn, of Dorset, England.

The property known as Ardmore was as unavailable as it was choice. A British member of parliament, Sir Richard Holmes, and said: "Sell Ardmore."

Major Holmes' son, Philip, head of the firm, stepped in. With salesmen Douglas Gage playing a large role, Pemberton Holmes proudly announced on the weekend that "Ardmore has been sold to Glynwood Park Estates Ltd. of Victoria."

The deal from Holmes to Glynwood Park Estates Ltd. was wrapped up.

Glynwood Park Estates Ltd., the non de plume of an anonymous city businessman, will subdivide Ardmore into residential lots.

What did Ardmore sell for? Nobody is saying. Nobody denied, either, that there would be much change left out of $50,000.

WARNING NOTE: From Dr. Gordon Shrum, director of the B.C. Research Council, comes this message in the 16th annual report: "While our volume of contract work for industry continues to grow, I am not satisfied that we are doing anything like the amount of product and process development which we could and should be undertaking."

"A large measure of our industrial work is in the service category, stemming largely from day-to-day production problems."

"Industry needs also to devote more attention to improving its present products, to develop new ones and to utilizing process waste materials."

Dr. Shrum related the needs of industry to the primary problem of B.C. industry—stiffening competition in foreign trade. "To overcome this," he said, "the Research Council has set up 'Operations Research' to provide management with a means of making more effective use of existing facilities."

Already, says Dr. Shrum, work under way "in the lumber industry looks particularly promising."

Operations Research presents a role of keeping a watching brief on the activity of productivity groups in the U.K. and western Europe enables it to function as a clearing house for information.

Little known, Operations Research may fill a real void for B.C. manufacturers who, because of lack of time or money (or both) can't make the overseas trip to find out firsthand how their competitors do it better, faster and cheaper.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax took on a stronger appearance today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

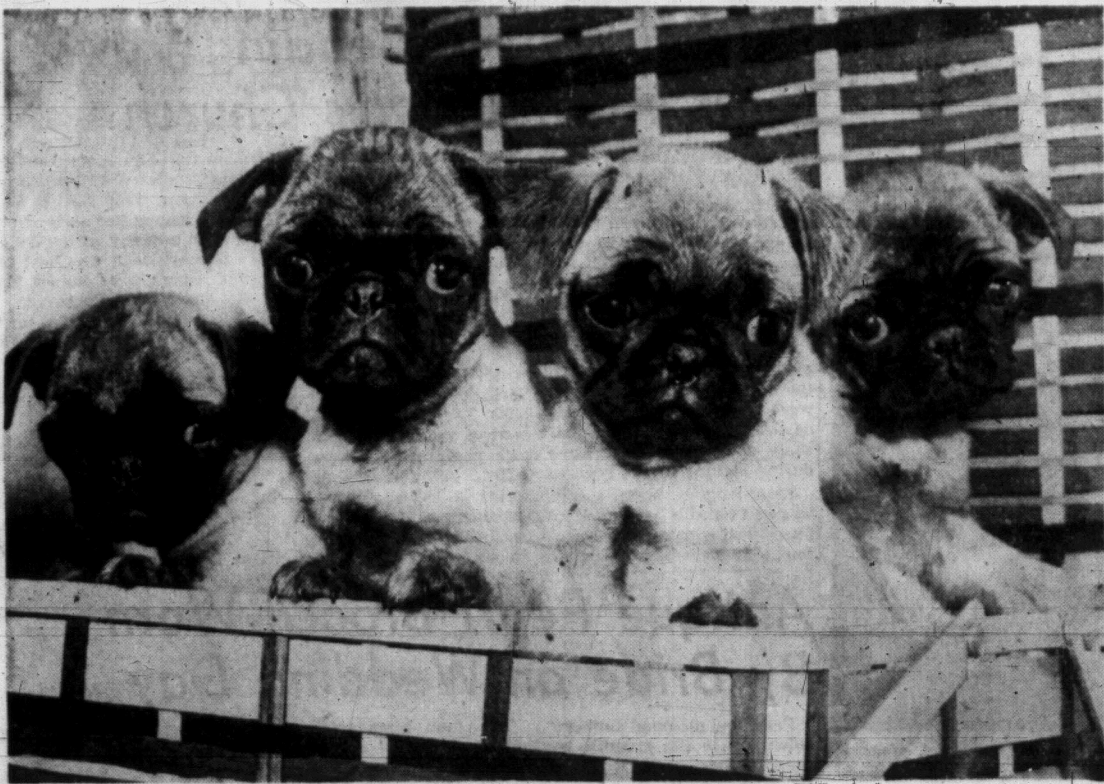

Renewed export interest in Canadian flax was shown. Offerings were on the light side, while prices responded to international support. Trade reports indicated small parcels of Canadian flax had been sold for export to the United Kingdom and some inquiry from the Continent was reported.

Oats and barley trade continued on the quiet side with a few routine domestic shipping orders in connection with feed supplies. Offerings were

WHADDYA MEAN, PUG-UGLY?

Pugnacious in appearance and pug by name, these pups are actually most good natured, will grow to be gentle, loving companions. Owned by Mrs. Tom Moss, 3966 Cedar Hill Cross Road, they are 2½ months old, were imported from U.S.A. in belief popularity of breed, which has fallen in past 20 years, will be revived. Pugs are miniature bulldogs, largest of the toy group of dogs.

FATHER FOLLOWS SON TO BROKEN BONE WARD

It was a bad weekend for the Sproules of 3130 Frechette, with two members of the family sent to hospital with broken or suspected broken bones from separate accidents.

Saanich fireman Robert Sproule, thrown off a fire truck rushing to a grass fire on Granville Sunday, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for a broken ankle.

Remaining members of his crew fought a blazing half-acre of grass and brush.

On Friday, his son, Patrick, 12, was taken to the same hospital with a neck cut and possible broken collarbone suffered when his bicycle crashed into a parked car.

Special meeting of Esquimalt Council "to get the ball rolling" on construction of a municipal sports centre approved by ratepayers in a $400,000 bylaw vote last Saturday, will be held Wednesday.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said the meeting will be in camera, but residents will be informed of action taken.

A deep-freeze burglar made an $80 in cool cash when he took four $20 bills from a Victoria man's refrigerator some time over the weekend.

Beno Korte, 3099 Albany, complained to police the money and a bank book had been taken from the freezing compartment of his refrigerator since Friday night.

City council today will decide whether to take the advice of finance committee and donate $200 to a fund to send Canadian athletes, including five from Victoria, to the Olympic Games in Rome.

Frank Lynn Radway, 1321 Rockland, was fined $250 and his licence was suspended in city police court today for impaired driving.

William Douglas, 4290 Glenford, was treated for minor cuts after the car in which he rode crashed into a power pole on Head near Esquimalt late Monday.

Police said the driver was Donald Hardy, 746 Kings.

The 166 Victoria students who have been touring Europe are due back in Victoria this Saturday.

They saved their money and paid their own way across under reduced student rates.

The group arrived in Montreal by air today and are visiting Ottawa before catching CNR train on last lap of journey home.

B.C. Electric and its gas workers have accepted a unanimous conciliation board recommendation of an 8 per cent wage increase spread over two years.

Some 500 gas workers, members of the IBEW (about 40 in this area), are affected in Vancouver, Victoria and the Fraser Valley.

Increases are 3 per cent, retroactive to May 1, 1960; 3 per cent, effective January 1, 1961; and 2 per cent effective September 1, 1961.

The respective increases will step the laborers' rate to $1.90, $1.96 and $2.

City council works committee will investigate beautifying the downtown area by installing "tubs" containing shrubs in front of business premises.

Committee today more or less endorsed the proposition, which came from several businessmen.

It is now illegal for a business establishment to undertake such a venture on its own.

More discussion will be needed before action is taken.

Terry Goodman, 10 of 4903 West Saanich, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a severe gash in the arm after he fell against a window at Beaver Lake Monday afternoon.

Police said the boy was discharged from hospital after being stitched.

He fell at the lakeshore concession building.

City public works committee will hold a special meeting shortly with B.C. Electric officials on a suggestion that all buses be taken off Douglas Street to release parking facilities.

The suggestion was made by Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean, who said buses could easily be re-routed along adjacent streets.

"There'd be an awful holler from the public," said committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. Elderly persons, he said, object to having to walk farther than they have to.

SAANICH CCF candidate Pat Thomas is reaching right down into the fine print for an election issue.

Says he believes the party will benefit from dissatisfaction with the present telephone book, with its small type and somewhat mystifying abbreviations.

"We advocate public ownership of the B.C. Telephone Company," says Mr. Thomas, "and we'd make sure of a more satisfactory telephone book."

The CCF actually up and did it—nominated a candidate to run against 86-year-old Tom Uphill, the independent labor member for Fernie for 40 years, who has yet to say whether he will or won't run.

Since the CCF was formed, it has always left the Fernie field clear for ardent laborite Uphill.

But, because "old Tom" took so long to make up his mind, the Fernie CCFers have nominated Lloyd Phillips to contest the seat.

'Metermen' May Get New Power

Commissionaires, now limited to patrolling parking meters only, may have their authority broadened to patrol for all parking offences.

City public works committee today decided to meet with the police commission on the suggestion.

The committee also will suggest to the commission that hours of commissionaires be changed from the present 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., to 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. to enable more effective handling of rush hour traffic and parking.

Commissionaires also may be given chalk sticks to mark cars parked in metered spaces, and a system of progressive fines for continuing infractions.

The committee was not so much opposed to "repeat metering" by car drivers—that is, replenishing the meter from time to time, over the allowable parking time, as to businessmen who parked all day in one spot by feeding the meters.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said there were many "organized" groups in city offices who behaved this way.

It was brought to committee attention that recently 11 businessmen had been noted parking all day on View Street.

Among the worst offenders were real estate men, who waited cars handy to take out clients.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman, said a printed appeal to these persons might help. They would be asked to find off-street parking.

TIMETABLE LISTED FOR ECHO I

If skies are clear, Echo I, the United States balloon satellite, will be visible over Victoria tonight.

Dr. J. O. Wright of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said today watchers should look for a moving star on the following schedule:

10:55 p.m. PDT—Rising in the southeast 45 to an altitude of about 45 degrees and setting in the east.

12:45 a.m.—Rising in the west and passing nearly overhead and setting in the southeast.

2:45 a.m.—Rising in the southwest and setting in the south.

Dr. Wright said the satellite's carrier should be seen about 20 minutes earlier than Echo I. But it would not be as bright as the balloon, he said.

RCN to Host Eight Ships From U.S.

The RCN Pacific Command at Esquimalt will be host to a total of eight United States ships this month.

On Thursday, the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Gresham will arrive for a visit lasting until Sunday. HMCS Fraser will be host ship.

On Friday, five ships of the U.S. Minesweeping Division 73 will berth here briefly on the way to the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver.

They are U.S. Ships Acme, Conquest, Esteem, Pledge, and Gallant. Host ship will be the four units of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

Mindiv 73 will return Aug. 30 for a visit lasting until Sept. 2.

Two destroyers, USS Laws and USS Watts, are scheduled to arrive Aug. 26 for a three-day stop in the course of a reserve training cruise. Host ships will be HMCS New Glasgow and HMCS Antigonish.

CLINICS AT TWO HOSPITALS WEDNESDAY

'Second Front' in Polio War

Wednesday will be "Blitz Day" against polio in both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals.

Clinics will be operating from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Nurses' Residences.

The campaign, instituted by the Victoria Medical Society and the Public Health Department, is aimed at counter-balancing the "apathy" to anti-polio vaccination apparent in Victoria despite a mounting polio disease rate.

Two categories are eligible for the free shots: Those who have not yet received their first inoculation, and persons who more than two years ago started the series of three inoculations but have not completed them.

Age is no barrier. Last year's oldest polio victim was 72.

When a similar clinic was held here three years ago, more than 15,000 persons took advantage of it.

Twenty doctors will be on hand at the hospitals, working on a shift basis.

Doctors emphasize the shots have no after-effects. All that is necessary is a rolled-up sleeve. It takes only a few seconds.

'Pretty Boy,' 14, Admits Masquerade

Theft of Suitcase Leads to Unveiling

A 14-year-old Edmonton boy who successfully masqueraded as an attractive, well-proportioned woman of 22—and used the effect to cash a number of bogus cheques—is in Coldharbour Detention Home here after city detectives cracked his disguise Monday night.

Victoria juvenile officers said today the boy dressed as a woman after stealing a suitcase full of female apparel at Kamloops about the end of July.

He disappeared from detention in Edmonton July 20.

His full exploits were not detailed, but police said the boy spent some time in Vancouver, cashing a number of cheques as he confronted hotel clerks and others with his pretty, made-up face and voluptuous figure.

STOLE SUITCASES

Deciding to come further west, the boy, using the name Pat, took the Monday afternoon ferry from Vancouver, and—probably needing a change—picked up a pair of suitcases belonging to another woman tourist.

This proved to be the beginning of the end for "Pat." "She came ashore, cashed a $50 cheque at a hotel, then went to have a pair of shoes fitted.

The male clerk who served his dainty customer never suspected a thing. She went away with her shoes to register at a different hotel from which she had obtained her money.

SAME HOTEL

By coincidence, the real owner of the suitcases, was registering at the same hotel, saw her cases being handled by a strange woman and decided to call police.

Detectives, suspecting nothing out of the ordinary, paid a visit to the "woman's" hotel room to ask a few pertinent questions, like "Whose bags are these?"

Possibly unnerved by the proximity of police, Pat broke down and confessed to his identity.

Power Failure

A power pole on Pembroke Street short-circuited, early today and caused an electricity failure in the Wharf, Store, Government and Pembroke Streets area.

'You Have Debt Of $555 Million'

A sign was painted on the ceiling of the Woodsworth CCF Hall, Courtney Street, Monday night. In large black letters it read:

"You Have a $555,000,000 provincial debt Hanging Over Your Head."

"Do you really believe our province is debt-free?" asked Victoria CCF candidate Mrs. Rhoda Erickson of an audience of close to 100 attending a CCF election rally.

A number of supporters answered "No," and there was some shaking of heads as Mrs. Erickson went on to declare that an economic review of B.C. government finances, issued by the minister of finance and printed by the Queen's Printer, showed that the province owed $555,000,000 in contingent liabilities.

IT'S DEBT

Mrs. Erickson insisted that this money was "debt" although, as she said, the government described it as "self-liquidating."

"I hope you will tell others and help to stop people being fooled by this sort of thing," she said.

Holding up a copy of the Social Credit booklet "Eight Great Years," Mrs. Erickson said it was designed to give the impression the government was responsible for all the advances made in social legislation.

"This is political plagiarism," she declared. "The CCF is the only party that has given any backing to organized labor and has striven consistently to raise the living standards of the working people."

'VOTE CATCHING'

Mrs. Erickson accused the government of "vote-catching" when it spoke of protecting individual freedom. She said Bill 43 (curbing the power of labor leaders to call strikes) was "the most infamous legislation ever brought down as labor law in Canada."

"It is robbing the trade unions of free speech," she declared.

Neil Hindle, also running for election as a CCF candidate, said the Wenner-Gren plan to develop northern British Columbia had "never" been put to the test of public opinion.

"There has never been a vote on Wenner-Gren," he said, "but there have been all kinds of difficulties and the premier is mad because the Peace River project hasn't yet got off the ground."

"If the B.C. Power Commission had full rights to use the full resources of this province we would not have Wenner-Gren at all."

Of the Pacific Northern Railway (a Wenner-Gren project designed to build a railway from Prince George to the Yukon boundary), he said:

"All they have at Prince George at the moment are four men and a broken-down bulldozer."

Mr. Hindle argued that the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway should be extended to the Yukon—and perhaps to Alaska. There was no need for Wenner-Gren.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would the wife or widow of a Canadian old age pensioner living in England and having the necessary 25 years' residence in Canada be entitled on reaching age 70 to receive her monthly old age pension without returning to Canada?—D.M.M.

A. In the ordinary case, a person such as described would have to return to Canada and reside here a year before she could become eligible for pension payment. If, however, there had been no actual change of residence and such a person were temporarily absent from Canada on reaching age 70, she could qualify for payment without returning to Canada.

Q. Could you find out the origin of the word "grit" in relation to its Liberal party application?—R.C.

A. Clear Grits were the name given to the Reform Party in Canada in 1849 who were critical of the government. Origin of the term is attributed to David Christie, who wanted in the party "all sand and no dirt; clear grit all the way through." The Reform party provided the nucleus of what became the Liberal party.

Green Urges Arms Talk Resumption

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada said today "greater progress was possible and should have been made" at the 10-nation talks on disarmament which collapsed at Geneva June 27.

External Affairs Minister Green gave this assessment to the United Nations disarmament commission in demanding that the 10-nation group, of which Canada is a member, urgently resume negotiations.

$5 MILLION PROJECT

Oil Pipeline Set
For Peace River

The B.C. government today approved a start on construction of a 130-mile crude oil pipeline network in the Peace River country which had been forfeited by another company.

Initial cost of the project will be $5 million.

Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd., a Canadian company, has been awarded a transport department certificate for an immediate start on construction.

The project was "defaulted" by Peace River Oil Pipeline Ltd. which could not come to terms with the provincial government on its plans for a hookup in Alberta.

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks said the new line will be in operation within 13 months. It will have an initial capacity of 20,000 barrels a day. The main line will be eight inches in diameter and feeder lines and auxiliaries will be "suitable" capacity.

WILL PROVIDE JOBS

Donald Brandt, president of the company, said about 100 men will get jobs on manufacturing the pipe, and "several hundred more" will get work on the line in the north.

The company has an office in Vancouver, and operates pipelines in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The main line will run from the Milligan Creek-Doig River oil fields to Fort St. John. Two branches will run from there to Dawson Creek and Boundary Lake on the Alberta border.

Trans-Prairie was one of four original applicants for the project.

Pipeline Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California today authorized Pacific Gas and Electric Company to build a multi-million dollar pipeline from the Oregon border to deliver Canadian natural gas to Antioch in the San Francisco Bay area.

Sailor Killed in Crash

Victim's Legs Severed
As Impact Crushes Auto

By AB KENT

A 38-year-old naval petty officer died almost instantly when his car was wrecked in crashes with another car, a tree, fences and a house on Hillside Avenue, at 11.35 p.m. Monday.

He lost both legs in the spectacular accident.

Lawrence Albert Orton, of HMCS Margaree, was dead on arrival at Royal Jubilee Hospital, the city's first traffic fatality of 1960.

Two others, AB Clarke E. Maguire, 21, of HMCS Margaree, a passenger with Orton, and Atwell C. D. King, 51, of 2091 Townley, driver of the other car, were treated for minor injuries.

The crash covered most of a city block between Doncaster Drive and Belmont Avenue and both sides of Hillside, an estimated 400 feet.

The victim's car was folded in the middle where it struck a large oak broadside at the driver's door on the north boulevard of Hillside.

Crash 'Sounded Like Gunfire'

"It sounded like gunfire," off-duty city policeman Harry Hoshal said after he was disturbed at his home at 1653 Edgeware, two blocks away.

"I went over to see what had happened. I couldn't rest until I found out."

He spent the next half-hour or so directing traffic around the crash scene. Carlos Blatchford, who had just retired to a second bedroom at 1503 Hillside, said he heard a loud crash of fences being knocked down, but hardly any sound of the car hitting the ground floor wall of his house.

Police said it appeared that PO Orton, married and the father of three children, drove west on Hillside when his car veered to the wrong side of the street just west of Doncaster and was in collision with the left front fender of King's car, heading east.

The impact apparently caused the first car to go back, out of control, some 235 feet along the right side of Hillside to where it struck the tree.

It was whipped through an arc on the north side of the tree and again on to the street, crossing completely to the south side where it went through fences at Blatchford's and his neighbor's, the home of Frederick Bosence, 1509 Hillside.

Petty Officer Thrown From Car

Its impetus finally broken, the car came to rest against a corner of Blatchford's house, barely damaging the structure. Police wrote off the four-door, two-tone late model car. King's car was damaged on the fender and left hood and wheel assembly.

Both cars were impounded pending investigation.

PO Orton was thrown out of his car at the oak tree and Maguire was carried on in the auto, suffering face and ankle injuries with which he was admitted to HMCS Naden Hospital.

King was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and treated for shoulder and hand injuries, and then discharged.

SIDNEY RIDER IN CAR CRASH

Sidney Jockey Dennis Anderson suffered minor injuries early today when involved in a fatal Vancouver accident.

He was one of two passengers in a car driven by Carl Frederick Braden, 24, of Portland, who was killed when the vehicle bounced off another car and collided with a third while rounding a curve.

He suffered a broken neck and was dead on arrival at hospital. The third passenger was P. E. Pollard of Portland.

VICTIM'S COMPANION, Clarke Maguire, is carried from wreck scene by city policemen. He was not seriously hurt. Nor was driver of other car, Atwell King, whose large black dog can be seen in back of death car, looking for master who had been taken to hospital.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart will conduct an inquest at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday at Hayward's funeral home.

PO Orton until recently lived with his family at 914 Parklands, but Mrs. Madeleine Mary Orton and children Nicky, 14, Karen, nine, and Andrea, seven, had just moved to Alberni where the family bought a motel business.

Wreck Spotted In Northern Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines announced today that four men are believed to have been killed when a company Beaver float plane crashed at Lorna Lake, 84 miles west of Williams Lake, 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The company said in a statement the plane apparently crashed on take off Monday.

A PWA search plane spotted the wreckage Monday night but could not determine whether the men were still inside. It was in about 10 feet of water.

B.C. PILOT

The company said pilot of the plane was J. B. (Jim) Marshall, 46, of Kamloops, B.C. Names of the three passengers, all thought to be Calgary men, were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

However, it is understood they were employees of Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary.

The company said first news of the accident came early Monday night after PWA sent in an aircraft to check when Marshall's plane was unreported. Marshall, a veteran pilot with eight years with PWA, reported to the company's Kamloops base at 1.10 p.m.

The search plane was hampered by darkness and another plane was sent in this morning.

"It would appear," reported pilot Lou Iverson, "that the aircraft was about to take off when it was struck by a violent gust of wind at the southeast end of the lake and flipped over."

"Because of heavy silt in the lake we were unable to determine whether the men were still inside the aircraft."

UN OFFICERS HELD

Congo Declares
Martial Law

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The Congo government tonight decreed martial law over the entire country for a period of six months.

The decree signed by President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba gave "the gravity of the situation" as the reason.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba's Congolese police swept through homes and hotels in Leopoldville today, arresting Europeans, United Nations personnel and a Canadian air control expert.

UN undersecretary Ralph Bunche intervened personally to obtain the release of two UN officers Congo police picked up. The police claimed the officers "were Belgians camouflaged under UN uniform."

The Congolese surrounded various buildings housing UN staff and detained many UN officials for identity purposes. They surrounded the big royal apartment building where the UN has its headquarters and hauled dozens of officials arriving for work about 8 a.m. into paddy wagons.

The officials were released when a fast shuttle service between officers and wagons brought out the pink identity cards to the police.

NABBED 4 TIMES

Bill Routhiffe of Montreal, an air control expert at Ndolo airport in Leopoldville, was arrested by police four times in four blocks while walking to UN headquarters for an identity card. Each time he was allowed to go free. Another official was detained for an hour and released.

About 200 soldiers of the Congolese army also expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers from Leopoldville airport.

The paratroopers offered no resistance and marched off smartly to a Belgian plane and took off for the Belgian base at Kitona. They were the last Belgian troops in Leopoldville. Thirteen civilian members of the Belgian military mission were expelled on the same plane. They had been found in the Belgian Embassy as Lumumba's army and police began their crackdown today.

Congolese troops also arrested Gaston Dieu, deputy president of the Belgian airline Sabena.

Roving police questioned scores of persons wearing UN armbands and searched their rooms.

AT LEAST 10 HELD

UN officials said at least 10 UN personnel were being held by the police.

Lumumba made his show of force some 12 hours after UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demands that UN troops enforce the premier's authority throughout the turbulent Congo.

Hammarskjöld decided to return to the 11-nation council for new instructions after Lumumba in a series of three bitter letters said he no longer had confidence in the secretary-general. The fiery Congolese leader presented demands for sweeping UN help in putting down dissidents against his rule and creation of an Asian-African commission to take over Hammarskjöld's supervision of the UN effort in the strife-torn area.

The police checks followed charges by Lumumba Monday night in a broadcast speech

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND DEAD

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Police announced tonight the body of Graeme Thorne, eight-year-old kidnapped boy, was found in the suburb of Seaford.

The body was wrapped in blankets and tightly gagged and bound.

Graeme, son of lottery winner Basil Thorne, disappeared on his way to school July 7.

Ninety minutes after he left a phone caller with a foreign accent demanded $25,000 Australian ($36,000) ransom for his safe return. The parents sought to pay, but never were able to establish when and where the kidnappers wanted them to make contact.

The body was discovered near the spot Graeme's school bag, cap, school books and other items were found a few days after he disappeared.

BERNSTEIN PERSONIFIES MUSIC HE'S INTERPRETING

An Evening Without a Let-Down

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Music Critic
VANCOUVER — Following close on the heels of a Chinese conquest from Peking, one of America's ace musical forces invaded Vancouver during the last two days of the International Festival and gathered its own thousands of converts.

Monday night at the capacity-packed Exhibition Forum, Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra brought a cheering, inspired audience to its feet at the end of the first of three concerts scheduled to conclude the festival.

SOLD OUT

This morning thousands of youngsters and adults again packed the Forum for one of Bernstein's celebrated children's concerts, while tonight a program, sold out long in advance, will be played in the Queen Elizabeth Theatre. From the first phrases of the three national anthems, transformed into heady, pulse-stirring stuff by sheer beauty of tone and Bernstein magic, to the last, Bacchanalian passages of Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe" suite, it was an evening without a let-down in the quality of its inspiration.

WORTHY OF BEST

The orchestra is, inevitably, as close to perfection as one is likely to come, even though one may like this or that aspect of some other of the world's great orchestras better. Its 106 members comprise a magnificent sensitive, brilliant composite instrument, worthy of the best that can be given them in conductors.

And so they have Bernstein; one of those geniuses whose

... they get the message

like appears possibly once or twice in a century.

His many-faceted genius has provided him with the successful careers of conductor, composer, pianist, teacher, lecturer and author.

Yet it is obvious that he also might have been a very great actor. On the podium he personifies the music he is interpreting. He leaps into the air to emphasize a rhythmic point; his arms and hands become bird wings hovering delicately; his left hand clutches his breast, his face contorts in the turbulent spirit of the Franck D Minor Symphony. His shoulders assume an impudent cock and his hands manipulate the orchestra through seemingly impossible musical acrobatics in "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks".

But there is not for one moment a suggestion that he is indulging in any gallery play.

EVERY MEANS

The dynamic Mr. Bernstein simply uses every means at his disposal to communicate to his orchestra his musical desires.

And they get the message.

They get it with such electric force that they play always with the utmost virtuosity, achieving one thrilling climax after another; or, on the other hand, passages of lyrical charm that are equally as breathtaking in their own way.

Certainly Bernstein conjures every instrument into revealing its full potential and in an ensemble such as the New York Philharmonic that adds up to a maximum effect in orchestral color and eloquence.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

MONTREAL—The case of the painted lady had detectives fanning downtown night clubs Monday night in an effort to find out who daubed Miss T. Meckinson green.

Miss Meckinson, 20, was discovered at dawn Monday seated on the steps of the Royal Victoria Hospital, wearing nothing but a blanket and a coat of green water paint from head to toe.

Police said one man has been arrested in connection with the case and released on bail. Two others are being sought.

Though incoherent for about an hour after she was found, Miss Meckinson later filed a complaint against three men whom she said she had met casually the previous night.

Nurses gave her a thorough scrubbing but traces of the water paint still showed Monday night as Miss Meckinson accompanied detectives in a search of the clubs for the fugitives.

MUSKOGON, Mich.—Deputy Tom Miller took a look at the car that passed him Monday and ordered the driver, William Hunsucker, to pull over. Here's what Miller reported he found:

Defective steering, brakes and tail lights; broken latches on both rear doors; defective tires; improper display of licence plates, and floorboards nearly eaten through by rust. Hunsucker agreed to leave the car at a service station. But as he moved it, both doors on the left side swung open and both rear doors fell off. Cited for improper steering, he left the car at the station for junk.

OAKLAND, Calif.—A 30-ton tank rumbled through 12 blocks of Oakland, smashing houses and trees.

But nobody tried to stop the driver, Abdo Allen. In fact, civic leaders stood by watching him.

Allen is a wrecking contractor.

Victorians Warm Up To Smile Show

Victorians seem to be catching on to Jerry Gosley's Summer Smile Show, now in its final week at the Langham Court Theatre.

"For eight years past 75 per cent of our supporters have been visitors from the United States," Mr. Gosley said. "Now we are getting more local enthusiasts—and we are more than glad of them."

Popular Victoria baritone John Dunbar sings eight songs in the show this week, supported by honny Margaret Thomson, Len Evans, Reg Stone and the ever-versatile Gosley.

DISCOVERIES

Two newcomers to the program are Bob Dawson and Frank Keifer, former stage hands whose talents as pianist and guitarist were discovered only recently.

Many local residents have seen the show twice and some three times. A number were turned away Saturday night and those wishing to make reservations this week are asked to phone EV 6-5311.

One of the most popular songs in the show is Jerry Gosley's own composition, "The Colorful Land That I Love," dedicated to British Columbia and illustrated with vivid color slides of B.C.

They were.

DAVENPORT, Iowa — The elderly stranger approached the house where a slightly older man sat on a porch Monday.

Could you direct me to the Old Cemetery Road? the stranger asked.

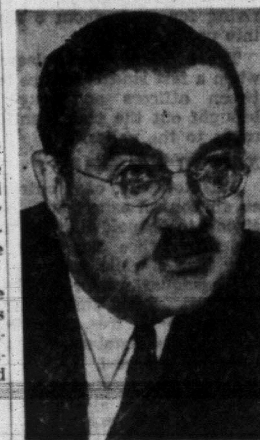

The two men talked for a while and then discovered they are brothers who had not seen each other for 46 years.

The older man, Arthur Ewaldt, 80, took his younger brother, Rudolph, 76, of Grand Rapids, Mich. to a third brother Frank, 85, also of Davenport.

Rudolph said that when he left his brothers 46 years ago he lost contact with them and thought they were dead.

Rudolph said he had decided to bring his daughter and son-in-law here to show them where he grew up.

B.C. $9.6 Million 'Short' On Road, Works Spending

British Columbia spent $9,679,779 less on highways and public works in the fiscal year ending last March 31 than it had planned to do.

This was one of the chief reasons why the province—in the year which saw the repayment of all direct debt accomplished—ended with an overall budget surplus of $5,147,336 rather than a deficit.

The detailed figures were disclosed for the first time when Premier Bennett Monday afternoon released an "abridged version" of public accounts for 1959-60 several months ahead of the usual release time.

While saving this large sum on roads and buildings, the Premier used $18,906,000 of his revenues in order to pay the last allocation on the debt.

Had the debt payment not been made there would have been funds available to carry out the full scheduled program of works.

The highway allocations were underspent by $7,203,000 and the appropriations for construction by $1,344,000.

GEARED TO REVENUE

The underspending on the flexible public works appropriation is in line with the government's pay-as-you-go policy. The spending on works has customarily been geared to the amount of revenue collected.

The accounts disclosed that Mr. Bennett collected from all sources $20,000,000 more than he anticipated when he submitted the 1959-60 budget last year—$307,000,000 against $287,000,000. He raised his overall spending in proportion, but still finished with the $5,147,336 surplus.

WATER SAFE AT PROSPECT SAYS BEATTIE

There is no danger yet of water pollution at Prospect Lake, according to Dr. A. N. Beattie, Saanich medical health officer.

Dr. Beattie, who conducted tests of the water following charges of pollution, said Monday the pollution level at Prospect Lake is far below that of other swimming lakes in the municipality.

He said the pollution count was only 13 at Prospect Lake on July 28 while at Elk Lake's northwest beach and at Glen Lake on the same day it was 920.

Danger point is 1,000. Dr. Beattie, however, advised lake residents to boil all lake water before drinking.

WERNHER VON BRAUN
... reveals project.

NEW 'SUPER ROCKET' TO SCOUT THE MOON

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—U.S. space expert Wernher von Braun today described a "super rocket" planned to scout the moon before man arrives as the biggest international space parley to date settled down to work.

Von Braun told the 11th International Astronautical Congress the rocket would be a four-stage version of the powerful three-stage U.S. Saturn rocket now undergoing static engine tests.

The German-born rocket expert told the 700 delegates from 33 countries the "super rocket" would have twice the capacity of the three-stage Saturn complex.

The Saturn was expected to make its first flight in 1964 and was believed capable of a "soft" landing—as opposed to crashing—on the moon, von Braun, director of the guided missile development division of the army missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., said.

that Belgian "spies" were being covered up through the issuance of UN armbands to them. UN officials denied the charge.

ANGERED BY NEUTRALITY

Lumumba's anger with Hammaraskjold resulted from the secretary-general's strict observance of Security Council instructions that the UN troops should stay neutral in internal political disputes.

The premier had counted particularly on the UN force to put his government in control of Katanga province, whose mines furnished most of the Congo's pre-independence wealth and whose premier, Moise Tshombe, proclaimed the province independent. He accused Lumumba of being a Communist puppet and called in Belgian troops to maintain order. Tshombe's defiance touched off demands from leaders in other provinces for autonomy and a loose federation rather than the strong central government Lumumba wants.

Tshombe admitted UN troops to Katanga to replace the Belgians after Hammaraskjold assured him the Security Council's hands off promise would be strictly enforced. According to demands from Tshombe, the secretary-general refused to transport officials of Lumumba's government to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, and did not send to Katanga UN troops from Ghana and Guinea, whose governments back Lumumba's claim to control of the province and his charge, that Tshombe is a Belgian puppet.

LIST OF DEMANDS

Accusing Hammaraskjold of "ignoring the completely legal government of the republic" and of "acquiescing entirely to the demands of Belgium formulated by the voice of Tshombe," Lumumba in his letters demanded:

1. That Hammaraskjold's control of the UN Congo command be replaced by a commission of observers from 14 nations — Morocco, Tunisia, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, the United Arab Republic, Sudan, Ceylon, Liberia, Mali, Burma, India, Afghanistan and Lebanon.

2. That all white UN troops be pulled out of Katanga and replaced by Moroccan, Guinean, Ghanaian, Ethiopian, Sudanese, Tunisian, Liberian and Congolese forces.

3. That UN troops guarding airports be replaced by Lumumba's Congolese Army and police.

4. That planes be provided to fly his Congolese troops throughout the country "to re-establish order."

5. That all arms and ammunition distributed by the Belgians in Katanga to native troops loyal to Tshombe be seized and turned over to the central government.

The premier insisted the council's resolution of Aug. 9 provided that UN troops could be used to "reduce the rebel government of Katanga." The resolution provided "that the United Nations forces in the Congo will not be a party to, or in any way intervene in, or be used to influence, the outcome of any internal conflict, constitutional or otherwise."

A Moscow broadcast early today said the Congolese apparently would have to dispense with UN services if they were to restore order and ensure their nation's territorial integrity.

The broadcast, beamed to Africa, accused the UN of failing to take "resolute action" in the Congo.

42 City Students Win Scholarships

The British Columbia education department has announced 42 Victoria University students are eligible for government scholarships.

Altogether 304 students qualified for the provincial grants after university summer exams in which they achieved first-class standing.

The others are all from the University of British Columbia.

The government pays half the tuition fees for the coming year. This would range from $161 for an arts course, to $264 for medicine.

Other students who achieved second class standing, less than 80 per cent, are eligible for one-third grants.

Mount Toimie students who qualify for the first-class grants:

Victoria—Suzanne Bellard, Charles N. Brown, Brian G. Carr-Harris, Catherine E. Emery, Wendy K. Eberhard, Michael E. Farquhar, Harry M. Gelling, Anita C. Harrod, Michael S. D. Horn, Howard Linn.

David A. McKay, Douglas J. McMillin, Sharon G. Rayner, Patricia O. Service, Patrick M. Thompson, Peter D. Whitman, Michael J. Audain, Martin L. T. Berg.

Reds Decide To Sit in On Arms Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union decided today to attend the opening session of the United Nations disarmament commission along with other members of the nine-nation Soviet bloc.

The Soviet bloc countries decided at the last minute against boycotting the meeting after failure of their campaign to persuade Asian-African and other so-called neutral nations to stay away.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valery V. Kuznetsov was to take his seat at the conference table this afternoon in the committee room where United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was set to urge the 82-nation commission to call for speedy resumption of deadlocked East-West disarmament negotiations.

Bad Weather Barks Search

Thickening weather over Mount Waddington prevented a planned aerial search today for four missing climbers.

RCMP officers are standing by at Vancouver, ready to launch a search from the air the minute the weather clears, but at noon there was no sign of a break.

The missing climbers are thought to have been buried in a snow-and-ice avalanche.

U.S. Military Chiefs Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Thomas Gates today summoned U.S. military commanders around the world for a conference here Wednesday.

The Pentagon said the meeting will enable the secretary and the joint chiefs of staff to get up-to-date information about the state of readiness of the United States armed forces.

Bad Weather Barks Search

Thickening weather over Mount Waddington prevented a planned aerial search today for four missing climbers.

RCMP officers are standing by at Vancouver, ready to launch a search from the air the minute the weather clears, but at noon there was no sign of a break.

The missing climbers are thought to have been buried in a snow-and-ice avalanche.

U.S. Military Chiefs Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Thomas Gates today summoned U.S. military commanders around the world for a conference here Wednesday.

The Pentagon said the meeting will enable the secretary and the joint chiefs of staff to get up-to-date information about the state of readiness of the United States armed forces.

shoulder and hand injuries, and then discharged.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart will conduct an inquest at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday at Hayward's funeral home.

PO Orton until recently lived with his family at 914 Parklands, but Mrs. Madeleine Mary Orton and children Nicky, 14, Karen, nine, and Andrea, seven, had just moved to Alberni where the family bought a motel business.

The seaman was due for re-
